contrast to the snow, sieet and biting cold of last February, when he won New Hampshire's first-in-the nation primary by a 30 percent plurality and achieved the momentum that throught him the top spot on his party's ticket.

It was Mr. Carter's first major speech since he was nominated last month in New York, and it was a vintage Carter performance reminiscent of the homiletic, sometimes pious, style he employed in New Hampshire living rooms almost 20 months ago at the start of his long political march. It also raised doubts if there would be any startling or fundamental charges in his style as he entered the general election campaign that he will formally inaugurate on Labor Day.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3-For Charles Seidel, an 82year-old veteran of World War I, the American Legion's state convention here two weeks ago was a chance to share his military memories with those who would appreciate them, to march once more behind the flag-and, perhaps most important, to get away from his little house in Reading, Pa.

"I tried to get him to stay home, but he wouldn't, his wife said today. "He was a

Now, Mr. Seidel is dead, one of the most recent victims of a mysterious illness that is believed to have killed at least 19 other Pennsylva-nians and hospitalized dozens more across the state —all of them, like Mr. Seidel, persons who came here for the convention last month.

There were nearly 10,000 who came—delegates and wives and visitors like Mr. Seidel. They stayed in the downtown hotels, swapped stories in the lobbies, paraded down Broad Street, listened to the speeches about America's past and future glories and shared a few drinks.

Like Mr. Seidel, most of them returned to their homes on Sunday, July 25.

10,000 at Convention By Monday, dozens of them realized that they were ill, and although the accounts from their families and their doctors are sketchy and often contradictory, many of them appear to have complained of influenza-like discomforts: severe headaches, hacking coughs, high fevers and chest pains.

By Wednesday, a few had been hospitalized, and last Friday the malevolent pattern began to develop. Four men died that day, including Frank Aveni, 60, an employee of a sports wear factory in Clearfield, Pa., not far from Pittsburgh.

Ex-Prospective Jurors Are Appailed by Dispute Over Possible Bias on Panel

By MARCIA CHAMBERS

cial to The New York Tones, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3jury deliberations went into the fourth day in the trial of Wil-liam and Emily Harris, two former prospective jurors, whose bonesty had been questioned by the presiding judge, said today that their experience in disclos-ing possible bias by a sitting uror had left them appalled and humiliated.

By day's end, the seven women and five men had deliberated a total of 23 hours since Friday without reaching a verdict. It was the first day that the jurors had not asked that any testimony or legal instruc-tions be reread to them. In a letter to the judge and at the courthouse, the two for-mer jury prospects, whose sworn statements had thrown the trial into confusion, said that they were shocked by the official response to infor-mation that they had brought forward.

"I'm just a concerned citizen," said Jeanne Barton.
"Trying to discredit me is a shameful thing to do."

In denying defense motions for a mistrial yesterday, Judge Mark Brandler of Superior Court indicated that he thought Mrs. Barton and Corinne Hansen, the other former jury prospect, had been less than honest in their testimony at a special bearing into possible judicial and juror misconduct.

Women Were Criticized

Judge Brandler criticized both women in his ruling for their delay in reporting a juror's purported prejudicial remark, which came to light by accident last Friday, after the jury began its deliberations. However, Mrs. Barton conveyed her fears to the court bailiff more than two weeks ago, and a family friend, Judge Norman Epstein of Municipal Court, had alerted Judge Brandler to her concerns. The defense charged that Judge Brandler had failed to inform lawyers for both sides about the matter, and the judge explained his action by equating the Barton incident with the many "crank" letters and calls he receives in any highly pubicized trial.

The judge suggested that Mrs. Barton might have "imagined" the incident because she had been disappointed in not heing selected as a juror. This may have "triggered her imagina-tion or made her magnify" or be "mistaken" in what she heard, he said.

She and Miss Hansen said that they had heard a sitting juror say, that the trial's outcome was a "foregone conclusion." They also said that another prospective juror had constructed a gallows on which he hanged the Harrises in effigy.

Judge Brandler also turned down motions to dismiss that juror from the panel. He said that he would await a verdict and then perhaps question the panel about possible blas.

The Harrises, along with Pa mally received the city's plan to save $50 million by a comcombination of revenue producing measures and reductions in expenses other than personnel expenses.

City officials, in unveiling the plan Monday, expressed the view that the expenditures could be reduced to account for already experient slippages in the city's budget this year without restoring to a contingency plan. That plan would involve an $85 million cut and the dismissal of up to 4,200 workers.

This is what the audience, seemingly-composed of newcomers to Mr. Nikolais's work as well as loyalists, made clear in its enthusiastic response to the mixed-media marvels of the Nikolais Dance Theater last night at the Beacon Theater.

The company opened a two-week season (there will be three alternating programs) and the occasional squeals of delight at the older Nikolais pieces showed that his original ideas are as fresh as ever to an audience that has never seen dancers encased in bags or framed in streamers. The initiated could nod in recognition at the phi-losophical bent that also characterized his special art-

In some of his more recent works, however, Mr. Nikolais has edged over to the more conventional idea of drama. #### Johnnie Ray Gets Standing Ovation

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)— Johnnie Ray returned to sing at the Palladium here last night after 18 years, and a nostalgic packed house gave him a 15-minute standing ovation.

Observers said they could not remember such a reception for another performer. Singing "Cry" and other favorites from his repertory, Mr. Ray began a two-week engagement with an American show that includes Billy Daniels, the singer, the Ink Spots and Frances Faye, the pianist and singer.

"Memorable. It reminded everyone of their youth in the postwar music hall," wrote Geoffrey Wansell in The Times of London.

Tintoretto Works

Returned to Italy ROME, Aug. 3 (AP)-Two varuable paintings attributed to Venetian Renaissance painter Tintoretto and exclandestinely to Japan have been recovered and returned to Italy, author-ities announced today. The paintings, "Israel's The paintings, "Israel's Seven Plagues" and "Christ's Resurrection," were found in an Osaka gallery by Rodolfo Siviero, Italy's top art detec-tive in charge of locating Italian art abroad.

The paintings were sold to the Osaka gallery for $360,000 in 1974. They had been shipped from Milan in a box with a false bottom, Detec-tive Siviero said.

He added that Italian authorities had started investigations to determine the owner of the works and who took them abroad illegally, The exportation of ar without a license is forbidden here.

Ballet: O'Neal in 'Pillar'

the world was young and. innocent, or at least younger and more innocent, the role of Hagar in Antony Tudor's somber masterpiece, "Pillar of Fire," was among the most jesiously guarded roles in the American dance repertory. Indeed, since Nora Kave created the role in 1942, up until this season, and I could always be mistaken, I can only recall Sallie Wilson, Veronika Mlakar and Natalia Makarova in the role, although the Swedish ballerina Mariane Orlando has danced the ballet in Stockholm.

Now suddenly this season we are presented with three we are presented with three new Hagars, first Marcia. Haydée and Lynn Seymour, and at the New York State Theater on Monday night the youngest of the three, and the only American in the group, Christine O'Neal. Of course, Miss Kaye herself was only 22 years old when sire created the part, but nowadays we tend to think of Hagar as being a someof Hagar as being a some-what older woman.

Miss O'Neal is clearly a favorite of Mr. Tudorused her quite prominently in "The Leaves are Fading"
—and one can see why. She has that fleet and urgent quality that the choreogra-

The other two sisters, Mar Johanson as the eldest and Elizabeth Asnton as the youngest, are growing into their roles, and Michael Owen continues to improve as The Friend who finally leads Hagar to a happy life. As The Young Man who leads her away from virtue, Vladimir Gelvan seems oddly cast. He looks rather too much an immigrant for this small turn-of-the-century American

TUCKER BAND ADDS NOVEL ROCK TOUCH

When the Marshall Tucker Band from Spartanburg, S.C., began playing at the Schaefer Festival on Monday, some fans in one comes of the packed Wollman Rink hoisted a homemade banner calling it "the finest band in the jand." The point is debatable, but it does indicate the devotion of the group's following.

The unusual factor in the equation is the Marshall Tucker Band's music. Which differs markedly from that of any oth-er Southern rock band and is er Southern rock base and is definitely not the same old recycled boogie. For one thing, there is a saxophonist and flutist, Jerry Euhanks, whose flute in particular adds a novel touch to the group's guitar voicings.
The drumaner, Paul T. Riddle, plays in a manner that sugsolos of Elvin Jones, the jazz percussionist Mr. Riddle's polyrhythms sometimes get so busy that the band's audience acti-

REHEARSAL IN THE SHADE: Andre Kostelanetz and the New York Philharmonic in Sheep Meadow in Central Park

By ROBERT SHERMAN

Central Park's Sheep Meadow had tree-to-tree people last night, as it usually does when the New York Philharmonic comes to call. Balloons and streamers added to the festive mood, and the Weather Man was at his most cooperative as the Philharmonic opened its twelfth season of free park concerts before a crowd estimated by the po-lice to be "well over lice to be 100,000."

Things got a little noisier along the fringes, but within the tightly packed center of the Meadow, the listeners were as attentive as at any indoor concert. Many of them were also more comfortable, snnggling on blankets, sprawled in beach chairs or cheerfully polishing off picnic suppers of strawberries and

"It's one of the most wonderful nights we've had in New York," said Mayor Beame just before stepping on stage to offer official thanks to the Mellon Foundation, Exxon Corporation and the Herman W. Goldman Foundation for their public-spirited support of the series. The welcoming speeches were short, however, and then it was on to the music, with Andre Kostelanetz conducting Tchaikovsky's Sym-phony 25, the "New England Triptych" hy William Schu-

It was neither the time nor the place for interpretive subtleties, nor were they provided in substantial measure; the performances were robust and enthusiastic, however, and quite in keep-ing with the gala nature of

What could top off the evening? Fireworks, of course, and the opening boom of the lavish display was only a few seconds behind the trumpet call sounding the finale of the "William Tell" Overture.

Let others cavil at the misery of amplified music: this night it gave pleasure to 100,000 New Yorkers, and not many other things do nowadays. The concert will be repeated at 8:30 tonight in Prospect Park, Brooklyn; Thursday in Cunningham Park, Queens; and Saturday in Van Crtlandt Park, th Bronx. New Yorkers can also look ahead t a second week of free Philharmonic park concerts conducted by Thomas Schippers, and a third set with Erich Leinsdorf at the

By C. GERALD FRASER

An official at the State Council on the Arts said yesterday that the agency was behind schedule in processing hundreds of applications for grants from arts groups around the state.

At the same time, reports circulated among people in-side and close to the council that Governor Carey was about to name a replacement for Joan K. Davidson, the agency's chairman.

Asked about the reports last night, Mrs. Davidson said: "Of course I'm not going to resign. Absolutely not. I've got hig plans for next works."

Earlier, both Kitty Carlisle, the actress and singer who is vice chairman of the council, and a press spokesman for the Governor bad declined to deny or confirm the reports. Regarding the delays in processing applications for Davidson's assistant, said yesterday, "We're not yesterday, "We're not pleased." She explained that the 16-year-old agency had 86 employees last year and now has only 68 to deal with more applications and attendant paper work.

This year, the total available for appropriation is about $27.3 million, Miss Falk said, compared to $35 million last year.

Miss Falk, in explaining the council's slowness in handling applications, said the coun-cil had been through a difficult spring. She cited a move of offices from 57th Street to the state office building at hudget cuts and the inability to hire temporary help as some reasons for the council's late responses to appli-

Some of those who have left said that there was "confusion" in the administration of the agency. Gloria Mitchell, a former fiscal associate for performing arts, said that transfers out of her of-fice meant that people with no experience came in a a time when the fiscal cycle should have been well on its

Miss Falk said that recently a letter was sent to applicants telling them that procedures were slow this year because of the council's various difficulties.

'Emergency After Emergency' Enzo Mincin, a former fiscal associate, said the council was hurdened by "emergency after emergency after emergency." These, he indicated were usually in the nature of paperwork for members of Congress or legisla-tors and interrupted work directly related to grants and applications.
"It's hard to give money

SWEET SOUVENIR whatever reasons, you don't often hear the plaintive song "Intermezzo" any more. When you do, the lovely tune, which was a popular melody of the prewar Hit Parade days, invariably sug-gests the image of Ingrid Bergman as a concert violinist in her first Hollywood feature, "Intermezzo" (1939). Leslie Howard and Edna Best were co-stars in this bittersweet triangular drama, which is seldom revived theatrically. It's on today atrically. It's on today through Saturday, along with Loretta Young's Oscar-winoing vehicle, "The Farmer's Daughter" (1947), concluding tha David O. #### Two-Run Blast in 8th Erases the Deficit

By PAUL L MONTGOMERY With the reverse magic that has become their exclusive property of late, the Mets turned a four-run advantage into a one-run deficit in the blink of an eye last night in their game against Montreal at Shea Stadium.

However, the Mets recovered in time and won, 9-8. The Mets, behind Mickey Lobich, had taken a 6-2 lead against the Expos before Lolich weakened and the Mets' buil pen took over. Three runs for Montreal in the seventh inning and three more in the eighth were the

The Mets went ahead again, 9-8, in the eighth on Ed Kranepool's two-run homer, the 100th of his career with the Mets.

A Strong Start The Expos, who had won 10 of their last 14 games, started out strong against Lolich in the first inning. Ellis Valentine walked to lead off and scored on successive singles by Bombo Rivera and Larry Parrish. Lolich then got the next three outs without further damage. Clay Kirby, the Montreal starter, who brought a 1-8 won-lost record into the game, was a tonic for the fragile Met offense. After consulting three time with his catcher and manager before throwing a pitch, Kirby yielded three runs in the first inning on three walks, a wild pitch, two infield outs and a single by Roy Staiger.

The Expos got their second run in the third oo a single hy Valentine, a stolen base and Parrisb's double in the gap in left-center.

The Mets answered with a run their half of the inning. when Joe Torre singled with two outs, Ron Hodges walked and Staiger was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. At that point, Torre was sected from the gene for

The Mets precipitated Kirby's departure in the sixth. Staiger walked, Mike Phillips singled and Lolich sacrificed them to second and third. Pepe Mangual walked, load-ing the bases, and Felix Millan drove two runs home with a single over second base. Chuck Taylor, a former Met, replaced Kirby and got the third out. BY MURRAY CHASS The swallows never create as much fuss at Capistrano as The Bird does wherever lows don't talk to baseballs and have the lowest earnedrun average in the major

The Bird, to those who have had their heads in the sand, is Mark Fidrych, the rookie pitcher who started for the Detroit Tigers against the Yankees last night.

The Yankees, however, grounded The Bird, winning by 4-3 on a pair of two-run homers by Roy White and Oscar Gamble. It marked the first time this seasoo that Fidrych had lost a start in which the Tigers were not

Despite his fourth loss, Fidrych maintained his popu-larity rating. He has pitched before an average of 44,000 fans in his last eight starts. #### La Peche a Ile d'Anticosti

This is the second and last installment of a report on salmon fishing on Anticosti Island begun here some days ago by one who feloniously and temporarily deserted his post at the Olympics. On the second day on Rivière à la Loutre (Otter River), Paul Boulet, the guide, drove to Black Pool where the stream rustles under a leaning cedar tree on the far bank, sweeps on past a skimmed log caught in brush, then flattens out to curl left into shallow rapids. Facing downstream, the angler has the fast water and the log on his right. On the left a rock shelf drops off abruptly, and far below in the dark depths, grass can be seen moving gently. Leaving camp, Pierre d'Antenil of Montreal, riding with the drivers, grunted and pointed. The fisherman and fisherperson in the rear seat watched a doe racing ahead of the pickup truck. For about 50 yeards she went flat out along the dirt road, then veered into the forest, taking the tim-

Pierre chose to fish below the pool. Paul stationed the fisherperson near the tail and the fisherman at the bead, "Work down to the log," he said, "and I think you will take a fish." The very first cast brought a swid. Paul nodded gravely. He said nothing about mattentive anglers who get strikes and don't even try to strike back.

Two or three casts later the fish tried again. This time the rod tip came up and he had a mouthful of barbed steal. He came out of water shaking his head. Paul ambled down to get his landing net and the fisherperson. The salmon was young and inexperienced, a grise of about four pounds, but tough enough to keep this angler occupied for a while. Just as he was brought to the net, another salmon leaped.
"There's at least one more here," the fisherman said.

"There might be 50 more," Paul said. Silver Torpedo

Paul Boulet sees things not visible to ordinary eyes. On the left bank where the river runs deep and still, crossboards had been nailed to a pine tree to make a sort of ladder. Paul climbed two or three steps and stared down into the depths. A little more left," he told the fisherman, directing presentation of the fly. "Longer." Once in a long time a salmon leaped but nothing else happened.

Paul beckoned and pointed From the bank, many salmon could be seen circling in the still depths. There was a big white scar gouged out of the back of one fish, the bite of a seal, Paul said. He said that at this season you could seldom take more than one fish from the pool. While that first fish was fighting, he said, they had all moved here from the fast water, and when they lay like that fscing downstream they would never take a fly.

At lunch the fisherperson borrowed a scarf to shield head and ears against the blood-thirsty black files. Then Paul drove to Wilson Pool, where a little waterfall brings a small stream into the river. Mostly he stayed with the fisherperson at the head of the pool but he went to help when Pierre lost a fly in a tree and while he was gone there was a noble splash.
"I felt him," the fisherperson said, "but he's good because I didn't know what to do." In a little while she had another strike and did know what to do. Paul bad said salmon on Anticosti ranged from 3 to 10 pounds but when this one felt the hook and leaped he looked as big as an Olympic weight lifter. He could outjump Dwight Stones and be was bandsomer, a symphony in shimmering silver.

Which Way to the Bath

The fisherperson came floundering down the bank. She filled a boot wading rapids to a gravel bar. "Let him go!" somebody cried as the fish stormed upstream. "How far?" the fisherperson asked. "Far as he wants!" the guy said. but he could see she was down to the hacking on the reel. and the salmon was still running. He stopped at last and Jeaped 29 feet 3 inches for an Olympic and world record.

That's not my fish! the fisherperson said, but it was. On the bank above, Paul lifted a warming band. He explained later that the salmon had got behind a snag. In a moment he made a cranking gesture and the fisherperson reeled frantically. She had ber prize almost ready for the net but he was stubborn. "Should I let him run?" she asked, and got no answer. An instant later the hook tore free.

The fisherperson went back to camp to wash bloodstains out of her borrowed scarf. Her ears, swollen with fly bites, were cauliflowered like an old rassler's. Next morning, with a few hours to spare before departure, Pierre went fishing and caught his second grilse. The othersstayed put and scratched fly bites.

Their plane came in from Sept Iles carrying the luggage that had disappeared three days earlier. The plane went off to Gaspé and fog socked in before it returned. It droned over unseen, and went its-way. There wouldn't be another scheduled flight for two days.

The botel in Port Renier had one room available. It was 49 paces from the coeducational bathroom. Next morning fog was thicker than ever, but Pierre and a party of Americans arranged for a charter flight, and the weather cooperated reluctantly. In Sept Iles Pierre arranged for another charter to Montreal. In the Meridien Hotel there the concierge said certainly, be was fairly sure there would he room to the freezer for one small salmon.

"Richard," said Gantt, "this is the only chances I've had to work today." The one-upmanship apparently didn't work too well.

"How about me?" said Todd, taking a snap and giv-ing the ball a decent shot to the other side of the field. First Gantt, then Todd, put their feet into the ball, with Gantt surpassing the rookie.

A Special Advantage Todd has a tremendous advantage over the incumbent, however. He is also a quarterback. If he can give Holtz even faint reason for using him as a punter, it would save snot on the roster for another man.

"They would use me in college inside the 40 to try to kick the ball inside the 3 or 4," said Todd. He and Gantt played together at Alabama in 1973.

"Other guys in this league have tried to play two positions and punt. It doesn't work out," said Gantt. "There was Dan Pastorini of Houston and Dan Seiple of Miami." Both had better statistics then Gantt, though.

But last year's major problem, Gantt contended, "was attitude. I was cussed every day. Once I got hit on the head with a bad snap and Buddy Ryan screamed at me front of the whole team for 15 minutes. I was good for a while, but the whole team was good for a while. We were supposed to work oo the kicking teams, and theo we stopped working on

And why should this year be different?

'Because we've got a guy now who'll fight for the spe cial teams," said Gantt, refer-ring to Joe Gardi, the assistant coach.

And also hecause there is more attention to detail in camp now-every mistake that Gantt makes will be magnified. There are other kickers around the league now, too, who are just getting released. Gantt knows. who they are. But his first concern will be to stave off the threat hy Todd. The pair will be handling the punting next Monday oight at Yankee Stadium agaiost the Giants. But one who will not be playing is the Jets' No. 2 draft choice, Shafer Suggs. While a hush fell over the scrimmage today, Suggs, a defensive back, was stretched out after running in to stop a sweep. He will be out for a week to 10 days with a sprained right ankle.

For various reasons and in various classifications, the Giants dropped 11 players. They included Deve Lawson, the place-kicker who got a leave from the Air Force to try out for the team. The Giants placed him oo the military-reserve list, a rare classification since the Vietnam War ended.

Barney Sloan and John Jordan, defensive tackles, were placed on injured reserve, along with a running back, Tim Beamer. The "unable to perform" player was Jim Pietrzak, a defensive tackle who started last year, released were Fred Cooper and Mike Townsend, defen-sive backs; Charlie Hohbs and Pete Demmerle, wide receivers, and Frank Marian, a linebacker.

The Jets also got down to the 60-man limit. They placed Mark Lomas on the injured-reserve list, saw Mark Law, a guard, return home, and dropped a wide receiver, Robert Durrett, and a defensive end, Greg Harris.

Jets Try Free-Agent Rule Fails to Hurt N.F.

The returns are in on the 24 players of the National Foothall League who became free agents last May 1 and had the opportunity in an open market to join whichever team pleased About them the most.

These returns These returns falled by quite a Pro Football margin to sub-stantiate the coo-tention of the N.F.L. owners, and commissioner Pete Ro-zelle, that pro football must bave a reserve system or all the best players will want to perform for rich owners, such as Lamar Hunt of Kansas City, Clint Murchison of Dallas, or play in sophisti-cated cities like New York and Los Angeles, where they can moonlight profitably and in the case of Los Angeles, possibly enjoy the climate.

After court decisions cited it as illegal, the Rozelle compensation rule was set aside by the league and there were no impediments for the first time in hiring practices, Like haseball's Catrish Hunter or Andy Messersmith the players were free.

Hunt and Murchison, Los Angeles and New York did not come out so well. The Chiefs signed no free agents. The Cowboys got only Ron Johnson, the former Giant, at a considerable savings from his old salary.

The Rams managed to resign their free spirit, Fred Dryer, who was not going to play anywhere else, and the Jets acquired Ed Marinaro beceuse they were desperate for an established running back after John Riggins left

Ed Garvey, the executive director of the Players' As-sociation and an old antagonist of the owners and the commissioner, made these telling points before a Congressional committee, the Select House Committee on Professional Sports. pointed out that of the 24 free agents, 13 signed with eight new teams, five with their old teams, while six others went unsigned or retired. Garvey did not think that the evidence supported the N.F.L.'s contention that chaos would rule among the players if there was no reserve system to secure them to their contracted teams.

Few of these players were stars or even starters. Dryer was one star, Riggins, John Gilliam and possibly Jean Fugett were others. From the World Football League came three more, Calvin Hill, Larry Csonka and Paul Warfield. The Giants got Csonka, while Warfield returned to Cleveland and Washington wound up with the most, Hill, Rig-gins, RFugett-and Pat Sullivan, an unused quarterback from Atlanta.

According to Garvey, Hill and Fugett accepted less money from the Redskins than other teams had offered, which seeems hard to believe. Garvey said that professional athletes have as many geographical preferences as lawyers, teachers, machinists or Congressmen. "While obviously money is a factor," he sad, "there are many others. The primary one I have found in talking with pro ethletes is that they will. go where they can perform."

The Tampa Bay Bucaneers have already cut all three of the players they selected from the Chicago Bears roster in the player allocation. draft, Larry Ely and Bubba Broussard, lineebackers, and Earl-Douthitt, a safety. It is unusual in that Ron Wolf the Bucaneers personnel chief who is supposed to be so smart, had the advice of Abe Gibron, the former Chicago head coach.

In an effort to shake tha lethargy out of the Eagles, their new coach, Dick Vermeil, dropped five veterans rather than rookies when the first serious squad cut came this week. Vermeil waived Ben Hawkins, the wide receiver; Bill Lueck, guard; John Babinecz, linebacker;

There are several Ivy League alumni in the pro camps. Gary Fencik, Yale's pass receiver who was not drafted and spurned a tral with the Giants, is playing safety for Mami:

• Reggie Williams, the Dart-mouth linebacker, has won a joh with Cincinnati while Bill Craven, who had little renown at Harvard, has impressed as a safety with Cleveland. Princeton's Carl Barisich, a former Brown, is now starting at defensive tackle for Seattle.

Because the money is so good, pro football promotes comebacks. Earl McCulloch, a receiver who was once rookie-of-the year for Detroit, is trying out with the Rams. Pete Gogolak, dropped by the Giants and now 34, has to beat out Rich Szaro, a Brooklynite who went to Harvard, to win the New Orleans' kicking job. John Herrmann. another former Giant, is also with the Saints at wide receiver. Carter Campbell, who played out his option with. the Giants is trying once again at defensive end for Houston.

Mercury on 2 Wheels

By TOM BUCKLEY

Heads down, legs pumping furiously, the intrepid hicy-clists of the Can Carriers Messenger Service belp to keep the heart of the natioo's commercial capital throhbing.

Their royal blue canvas dispatch hags slung over their shoulders, they wheel their 10-speeds through the traffic that constricts the arteries of the metropolis, carrying advertising proofs to oervous creative chiefs, accounts receivable to grasping factors, precious stooes and gold for the silent men of the diamond district, and even, once, a live duck for a television commercial.

From river to river and all around midtown there's nothing quicker and cheaper than the bicycle," said George E. Cooper, the 26-year-old president of Can Carriers. "And there are no bicycles quicker than ours."

Unlike most of tha thousands of messengers who crisscross the city oo foot or by public transportation feeble retired people, former mental patients who tend to talk to themselves in eleva-tors, or disgruntled beginners goofing off between errands Can Carriers' bicyclists are blithe spirits.

"Part Horatio Alger and part hippie," Mr. Cooper said. "The reasoo is they are contractors independent rather than salaried employ-ees. They get half the charge for each delivery they make, and we usually have enough work to keep them as busy as they want to he."

A half dozen of the 45 men and 5 womeo who work as bicycle messengers average over $200 a week, he said, and several others come close to that figure, but to do so they must stay on their bikes for a long day and probably pedal 35 or 40

An open letter to Governor Jimmy Cart to help insure his understanding of Jew

Dear Governor Carter:

This may be one of the most important messages you she receive in your lifetime. It is prompted by a sentence in Sund: York Times reporting on your June 19th sermonic speech at 1 University, Lafayette, Indiana. It said that you were suspecte feeling some incompatibility with those of a non-Christian rel persuasion, particularly Jews.

Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe felt compatible with Jews. Writing to Van der Kamp in 1889, Pres-John Adams said, "The Hebrews have done more to civilize n any other nation. If I were an atheist, and believed in blind et fate, I should still believe that fate had ordained the Jews to most essential instrument for civilizing the nations,"

At Purdue, you said, "There's no reason why we should! honest on Monday morning than we were on Sunday." Incret true, is the fact that in my book, CITIZEN GOLDFARB*, you learn that I created a slogan in 1938, "LET'S DO BUSINESS (MONDAY IN THE SPIRIT OF SUNDAY." As President, I hop will keep reiterating those words so that all Americans make

That same year, 1938. I entered into partnership with Jo-Poland of Martinsburg, West Virginia, who taught a Methodi class for forty years. Introducing me at a luncheon before the businessmen of the town, he said, "I want to introduce to you partner, Sam Goldfarb, a Jew, but sincerely I believe him to L

Now, Governor, I submit facts to you about Lafayette, In that are stranger than fiction. Where you spoke Saturday, Jua department store was founded about 100 years ago by a Jev Loeb. In the late fifties, his son, Bert, retired to spend the few left to him in Miami Beach, Florida. Bert Loeb and I were fried Never did he boast to me of the monumental things he had do Once a visiting friend of Bert's told me about Loeb Park, Loeb Stadium and many other benefactions Bert had given to the tahis birth. Topping off all these gifts was when Bert gave his ex. fortune to Purdue University. It amounted to $5,000,000, with clause in the agreement granting Bert and his wife an annual them to live in retirement.

A leading citizen of Lafayette wrote to tell me of Loeb's githe colored Methodist Church, to the Building Funds of both the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., winding up by saying he made numers gifts that no one will ever know about. In comparison with Ber generosity I cite that of two Lafayette citizens far wealthier th Bert—Henry Marshall, Newspaper Publisher, and Eleanor Dai both recently deceased. The latter is presumed to have left an exceeding $25,000,000. Neither ever gave anything to the comm in their lifetime nor in their wills.

In conclusion, in the hope that you become as compatible v Jews as were the first five Presidents, I submit a front page quotation from Lord Charles Percy Snow, eminent British auth physicist, which appeared in 1971. He claimed that the unparal success of the Jews could be genetic superiority. Lord Snow sa "Take any test of achievement you like—in any branch of scien mathematics, literature, music, public life—the Jewish perform has been not only disproportionate, but almost ridiculously disproportionate. As a criterion, run your eyes down the lists of Nobel Prize winners for the last 25 years. You will find between quarter and a third bearing Jewish names."

Bear in mind the Jews constitute a tiny fraction of one per the earth's population.

God has been testing civilization to ascertain how long it w take for mankind to recognize that the people they were torturn were civilization's greatest benefactor.

> Faithfully 9 Sam Gold

*Citizen Goldfarb is one of the most fascinating autobiographies written. It is a most remarkable saga of one born in Russia, rear Missouri, Iowa and Illinois and who became a multi-millionaire consecrated to the idea that only service to humanity is the basis

Dr. Karl Menninger said, "I teach a Sunday School class and plan to make reference to your book." Wilford Peterso author of "Art of Living", said, "The world should hear what you to say." Sister Angelice, President of Ursuline College, said, "I fet sure this extraordinary book will help people come closer to God

As its title implies, "A Death in the Life" is a murder mystery, but only hy the way. Even though it is ingeoiously plotted, whatever that familiar phrase means, this is essentially a story of a young woman discovering what is real in life and in herself at the same time. Some readers will find Julie more suspenseful than the murder she helps to solve. Fortunately, Julie does not auffer from the rhetorical femininity of, say, the women of Helen MacInnes. #### Witty and Civilized

Michael Gilbert is one of England'a superior suspense writers and 'The Night of the Twelfth" is good, witty, civilized reading. It has to do with the sadistic murders of three young boys and the fear that the killer may strike at the school that is the scene of the action. There is a terrorist theme, too, for one of the schoolboys is the aon of the Israeli Am-

Everyone in "The Night of the Twelfth" is a recognizable character with more than enough idiosyncrasy to flesh out his hones. There is one quiet, competent secret agent who makes you feel that England is still the breeding ground of understated virtue. The fact that he poses as a schoolmaster lends weight to the impression that all of us might profitably study under the British.

Like Mrs. Davis's book, Mr. Gilbert's is cleverly, even elegantly, plotted. One senses that violent crime so ruffles the surface of English civility that it is only a question of tracing these ripples to their source to find the miscreant. As if one mystery per book was not enough. Mr. Gilbert offers his readers another in the form of a sophisticated and absorbing de-scription of a cricket game. A man who can do that can go as far-as his ambitioo impels him.

Strike Against Recovery

A temporary restraining order, issued yesterday by State Supreme Court Justice George Postel, offers municipal hospital workers and their leaders a chance to draw back from self-defeating folly-a threatened strike that menaces not only the city's sick but the survival and recovery of the sick city.

The hospital union's unrealistic demands for a freeze on layoffs casts a shadow nver the cautious optimism expressed by municipal officials yesterday as they presented their latest budget revisions to the Emergency Financial Control Board.

Although some of Mayor Beame's proposed new revenues and spending cuts are open to question, there are grounds for encouragement in the positive and generally credible response of the Mayor's new fiscal team to Control Board demands for fresb economies. The three-year effort to balance the municipal budget remains threatened, bowever, by a variety of uncertainties, among them the willingness of municipal unions to accept the unfortunate but necessary sacrifices imposed by fiscal realities.

A strike against the bospitals would ignore those realities as well as the law. Although it is undoubtedly true, as union leaders charge, that the Health and Hospitals Corporation is guilty of mismanagement and waste in other areas, the fact remains that staffing constitutes the dominant factor in inflated hospital costs. Only a reduction in personnel therefore can reduce health care expenditures to levels that a nearbankrupt city-and state-can afford.

The suggestion that layoffs can be avoided by closing hospitals is ludicrous. If hospitals are closed and unneeded beds eliminated, as experts bave recommended, without any concurrent reduction in personnel, an opportunity for major economies will be lost. The remaining bospitals would then be heavily overstaffed, less efficient and more costly than ever.

The hospital workers—and other municipal unions who are still pressing for pay increases-should at least accept the harsh truth that there can be no job security for anyone if the city is driven into bankruptcy by insupportable labor costs.

Public Trust

Representative Robert L. F. Sikes of Florida got away with much too mild a penalty for the profitable conflicts of interest that have marked his tenure in Congress, but his case may well have served a useful purpose. While the House was prepared to give him no more than a reprimand, it is finally showing signs of overcoming its long resistance to the idea of compelling Federal officeholders, including its own members, to make full disclosure of their financial holdings and Four times the Senate has passed bills cootaining tough provisions for such disclosure, including the "Watergate" reform bill that it approved, 91 to 5, in July. Three of these measures were allowed to die in the House, and the disclosure bill that is now expected to emerge from committee has been resting in various pigeonholes for a year and a half-long enough to discourage the belief that the House ever seriously intended. to make any change. Introduced by Representative Kastenmeier of Wisconsin, the measure now has 166 cosponsors, including to the credit of the New York delegation 26 of its 39 members. More important, it has just been given a vigorous push by the full Democratic caucus of the House.

Both House and Senate disclosure provisions, which differ only in detail, would compel full statements of outside income and financial dealings, above a minor level, for high Government officials from the President down. They would replace the present loose and haphazard regulations which are more open in their loopboles than in their requirements. They call for genuine public disclosure, not for sealed and confidential reports, available only when a Congressional committee has been pressured into requesting a look at them. They would apply to all sources of income, not just to companies doing business with the Federal government. The Senate bill even calls for periodic anditing.

A nation whose confidence in government has been severely jolted in the past few years needs such legislation if it is to shake off the cynicism that no democracy can long afford to indulge. Quick, if belated, acceptance by the House of the principle of public disclosure would belp to put life back in the precept that a public office is a public trust.

Alcoholism Controversy

Can reformed alcoholics safely engage in moderate social drinking?

Recently published reports by a group of Rand Corporation researchers suggest that such moderate indulgence may be without danger in some cases. They emphasize, however, that there is no way of distinguishing in advance between former alcobolics who can drink safely and others for whom any resumption of drinking is the beginning of serious relapse.

On the other side of the debate, there are many professionals in the alcoholism field whn fear, in the words of one, that as a result of the report "a lot of people will try to drink again, and a lot of people will die as a result."

The conclusion of the Rand study could have been derived from data known years ago. For example, an earlier publication by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, entitled "Alcohol and Health," noted that "abstinence has long been deemed the first essential step in psychological rehabilitation, but opinions keep appearing to suggest that some alcoholic persons can become normal drinkers while, at the same time, increasing their psychological and interpersonal bealth in other areas. This viewpoint disturbs many therapists who fear that each alcoholic patient will see himself as the exception who can become a controlled drinker." The articlesby Davies, Pattison and others cited on this point were published in the 1960's.

While the Rand study reinforces the earlier findings that some people can recover from alcoholism and resume moderate drinking, the absence of any sure guidelines suggests that the only sensible course is still to encourage total abstinence for all recovered alcoholics.

Revolution Derailed

For a long time the military leaders in Peru who overthrew an elected government in 1968 seemed to be something new under the South American sun. They had seized power not to buttress the country's tradltional oligarchy but to destroy its economic power. They set out to gain control over Peru's resources and. basic industries from foreign-mostly American-owners and to build a cooperative, socialist society.

Peru's revolution generated admiration beyond the Americas, even among those who in other circumstances would have deplored the harshness with which the generals silenced opposition or the slipshod manner in which many reforms were carried out. Peru replaced Castro's Cuba as a model for developing nations, and the generals relished their role as third world leaders who had defied Uncle Sam. Those heady days are over. Last year moderates in the military leadership threw out the impetuous Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado as President, Last month his successor, Gen. Francisco Morales Bermúdez, sacked most of the remaining radicals in the Cabinet, including the Prime Minister, Gen. Jorge Fernández Maldonado. Peru's revolution, like others in Latin America, has brought the country to an economic brink, a devalued currency and dwindling foreign exchange reserves.

To obtain new credits of more than $200 million, desperately needed to make repayments on a $3.7 billion foreign debt. Peru has accepted a surveillance over its economy by a group of private American banks that would have been unthinkable in the chauvinistic phase of the revolution. General Morales is having to pay the economic-and political-price for General Velasco's excesses and for the failures of many reform programs.

Only those immune to the ideals that inspired the revolution will rejoice at its derailment. For developing countries the example of Peru holds a lesson-of generals forgetting the merits of gradualism and consolidation, succumbing to the lure of reckless public spending, and ignoring the uses or constructive criticism.

Mystery on Mars

Unmanned space exploration has never had the popularallure of dramatic manned flights. In the two weeks since Viking I landed on Mars, however, the journey of a sophisticated but inanimate apparatus has suddenly come alive with unexpected mystery.

Tests to determine whether there are living organisms in the Martian soil have astonished all hands; the first data regarding oxygen generation and liberation of radioactive gas were almost totally unexpected. The activity registered was so vigorous that for the first time the possibility of life on Mars had to be seriously

There remains, of course, a vast gulf even between serious consideration of the possibility of such life and acceptance of that view. However strange and unexpected the data received from Mars seem at first glance. it is always possible that they are the result of simple chemical reactions having nothing to do with living

Very appropriately, therefore, Viking scientists are exploring several possible alternative hypotheses. They are prudently warning against jumping to hasty conclusions that the hoped-for result of the Viking landing -the discovery of living organisms on Mars-has already been accomplished at the first attempt. The odds against such a discovery still seem substantial, although considerably less so now than even a week ago.

It will take some time and additional evidence to answer the difficult, but truly fundamental and historic, questions that have been raised. In the atmosphere created by these early findings, however, it seems appropriate to reflect on what the finding of life on Mars-even very primitive life such as might exist in the Martian soil now being tested-might mean.

At the least, it would require a re-examination of many basic earthly philosophies. Human thinking has necessarily been earth-centered. Speculation on the origin of life on this planet has varied from assumptions concerning a specific act of creation by a Supreme Being to more prosaic scientific hypotheses about how organic compounds might have originated in the chemistry that existed on Earth a billion years ago.

The discovery of microscopic life on Mars would not, of course, invalidate either of these conjectures. But the discovery nf living things nn Mars would certainly contradict the uniqueness of Earth in the human mind.

If life of any kind exists nn Mars, then there is a far greater probability that it also exists elsewhere amidst the billions of suns and their planetary systems. What life on Mars would mean is that the human race is not alone and that sooner or later it may have to learn to communicate with other beings and perhaps even other civilizations.

To realize these possibilities is to realize how much depends on solving the mystery of Mars.

On Immigration and Labor Policy

The $3.5 billion jobs bill, recently passed over Presidential veto, will fail in its objective of reducing the unemployment statistics of U.S. residents. This element of labor policy will be more than neutralized by our countervailing immigration policy.

The bill is designed to generate 300,000 new jobs. Each year the U.S. admits about 400,000 legal immigrants, some 200,000 of them economically active. This is not a surprising figure since the main motivation for international migration remains economic. Numbers of illegal immigrants are not accurately known, but few of the severest critics of estimated illegal immigration rates could quarrel with 100,000 as a minimum figure for economically active illegal immigrants added each year. Hence the combinatim of legal and illegal immigrants will produce at least as many entrants to the job market as the employment hill is designed to produce jobs. --

Further, the average immigrant age is in the early twenties, closely matching that of the highest unemployment sector of our economy. Rates of unemployment among the young are a legacy of the "baby boom" years—the peak year for births after World War II was 1957, just nineteen years ago. So current immigration policy also affects age-specific unemployment rates, and further skews the already distorted

Hijacking and Law

In the Editor: William B, Lloyd of Rochester, while disparaging both the hijackers and the Uganda regime, is even more concerned lest "every nation is to be its own judge of the justification for humanitarian intervention." [Letter July 27:] "Yet if a principle cannot be applied generally," he asks, "what is it worth which depends on precedent, such as the common law, and international law. And, iodeed, we bave a maxim that "bard cases make bad law." And they can make bad law and often do when applied too broadly and without due regard to the special situation that existed in the hard case.

Entebbe, I submit, was an especially bard case. The conscience of the world wanted those bostages belped and distribution of age groups in our population. Immigration also amounted to about 50 percent of all U.S. population growth in 1975.

Does all this mean that levels of . legal and illegal immigration should be reduced? Perhaps—the question is a complex one that involves many considerations beyond labor and population policy. But the point is clear: At current low U.S. birth rates, immigration emerges as a significant and even major factor in these two important policy areas, not to mention those for resources (total consumption is affected by population size), education (we should train our own doctors rather than draw upon less well-endowed countries) and foreign aid (the "brain drain" is a form of reverse foreign aid).

It is now time for Congress to begin taking our new demographic circumstances into account, and to begin integrating immigration into the policy areas mentioned above. This has long been the practice in two other major immigrant-receiving nations, Canada and Australia, where immigration policy is part of the Labor Minister's portfolio, and where it is now under study as a major tool for achieving population policy objectives.

Approach to Issues

To the Editor:

Criticism of Jimmy Carter charging that be speaks on both sides of issues comes as no surprise in a country as blindly polarized on issues as ours. People want to know if be's "for labor." If so, they reason in their one-sidedness, be has to be "antibusiness." If be's "pro" the envirooment be must be for zero growth. If he's for a militarily strong United States, he must be against the poor. Nonsense. A good analogy would be pressure on a weather forecaster to report "rain" today, even if the day is seen as bringing showers and intermittent sunshine.

In my view, this simplistic approach to issues does barm to attempts to arrive at realistic solutions in a democratic society. The question should be: "Is this approach constructive for the general good?" not "Is it conservative, liberal or radical?" N. MANNING New York, July 23, 1976

The Ubiquitous Sales Pitch

To the Editor:

It was gratifying on a recent Sunday to revisit Jones Beach and find, after a hiatus of decades, that its facilities are still as immaculately maintained as they were when my family and I visited it on its opening day. Staff were everywhere swabbing down rest rooms, sweeping locker areas and energetically spearing detritis on the sand. How great, I thought, mentally envisioning the graffiti-desecrated subway cars and the general deterioration of most of the stations, some things about New York have not gone downhill

Alas! Five minutes after reclining on the beach the first plane bearing a commercial streamer appeared. With the numbing regularity of radio and television commercials the azure sky was crisscrossed with sales pitches for various products, services and causes. To cap the climax they were at one point joined by a sky-writing plane which spewed out a blessedly illegible message which seemed to stretch from Amagansett to Coney Island.

So much for blue skies. So much for escape from the media.

Back to the city to find, with increasing frequency, a stencilled sales message on the asphalt at the crosswalk. In Murray Hill, my personal bastion, you cannot step off a curb without having your eyes assaulted by a pitch for a "monster" movie, what may be a pornographic film, a local the neighborhood improvement committee. #### One-Man Police Cars

To the Editor:

There is really no excuse for the recently announced reductions in patrols by police radio cars when, in fact, such patrots could easily be increased at no additional expense to the city.

The solution is simple: Assign one police officer to each patrol car instead of the present two. This avould, in effect, double the amount of patrols that could be placed on the street at any given time.

Unfortunately, this plan, advocated by many city officials, will probably never be implemented due to resistance by the P.B.A., a union which places its own interests above the welfare nf

By Margaret Mead

As Viking I brings us details of the soil on Mars, and the press is filled with new details about the human brain, we realize our tremendous indebtedness to instrumentation—to the telescope, the microscope, the computer that can delicately pick a landing spot on another planet. .

It is also becoming clearer that we need other kinds of instrumentation to illuminate our human condition.

We need ways to think about the four billion people on this planet which will not turn them into statistics or vast faceless masses. When we deal with matter, the extraordinarily small or the extraordinarily large can be represented diagrammatically and intelligibly. But unless we can see the distinctiveness of particular children, as we bear of the starving thousands, or particular old people whose lifelong bomes have been burned to the ground in Beirut, our capacity to feel and think and act is deadened and anesthetized.

Strange names and strange places emerge from the news, are mispronounced on radio, and vanish again from our minds, or give us a temporary false sense of familiarity, like the faces of people who have shared the same waiting room in an airport.

We already have mirrors that like wide-angled lenses take in the whole of a large room, and plastic bubbles which attached to a window can bring the whole New York skyline into an eighteen-incb dimension. The reducing glass held in the hands of a landscape artist makes it possible for him to fix a wide panorama on a canvas, or plan a mural that spans the roof of a great ball. But we are just beginning to realize how photography can be used to construct macroscopes of our planetary, community.

The world bas been turning gray and faceless as we read of the billions of people, billions of cells in the brain, millions of tons of wheat and corn. billions of dollars accumulated and spent. In an attempt to grasp the size and shape of our planetary community, we use words like North and South, Western and non-Western, the third world, the rich and the poor, the developed, the developing, the "L.D.C.'s" (Least-Developed Countries, in the jargon of international ageocies). Such phrases are boxes into which no one ever looks or boxes with a single stereotyped label on the cover, like a recurring advertisement. Still photographs, juxtaposed with the cunning of the human imagination, can bring events occurring half a world away into focus for intense perusal. The long lens of the television camera can bring faces on the podium and faces in the audience together so Madison Square Garden is filled with recognizable human beings, instead of a vast amorphous mass of unknown faces.

As the camera lens darts in and out, we can see with both the eyes of the speaker and the eyes of the participants, and even some of the images which the speaker's words call up in

I think it is important to realize this need and the way in which photography can fulfill it, so the ways in which the images which are now jumbled in our heads can be paraded meaningfully before our eyes, or bumanly re-ordered in tranquility on the page of a book. So, as once the people of small villages wept for the death of a single child, we can again take the world to our bearts.

MILWAUKEE O BE a woman whose teen-age years were in the 1950's is a privilege. Many writers call my generation to one another. the "lost generation," the generation that was afraid to speak up, the backward age. I disagree. I definitely feel that the term best depicting the period I grew up in is 'happy days."

I deem it a privilege to have grown up at a time when there wera genuine values to uphold. A time when parents respected, grandparents were taken care of and not thrown into institutions, virginity was guarded, and sex was held sacred:

. I do not for one moment regret not knowing about The Pill during my teen-age years.

How beautiful it was not to be ashamed to have school spirit, to be active in extracurricular school activities, to thoroughly enjoy the junior prom, and to compete with other girls for the attention of the popular boys. It was pure joy -- the once-in-a-lifetime magnificent innocence of being young, alive, and a vibrant teen-age

I shall always treasure the naiveté with which I went away to college. Being a teen of the 50's and a woman of the 70's offers the best of both worlds; I enjoy the advantages of free thinking and self-awareness of the 70's. A woman should not be stifled or live in the shadow of her husband; she should develop her capabilities and talents to the fullest for self-fulfillment and enrichment. She should have equal rights in joh opportunities and credit applications. A woman is a beautiful and unique creature, and she should never lose her femininity or her individuality.

I am so glad to be part of that wrongly-called "silent generation." To have the memories of a good family life, to know a slower pace of living when people had more time to be nice

To be part of a time when doctors really did make house calls and knew your first name, a time when teachers didn't mind extra hours and becoming involved in extra school activities_with their students, a time when family picnics and going to the beach replaced sending the kids to camp for the summer, a time of feeling and loving without turning to a textbook time to be an individual, natural and

These values I hope never to lose, and I bope to pass to my children, along with the benefits of progress that is made as the years go on.

It is a privilege to be part of a generation of deep feelings, not silence. Remembering the agony and fear of war, huddled close together, petrified during "blackouts," and having nightmares of war at age five. Although there were no overt demonstrations. we hated war! I remember when the President of the United States was revered and loved, and the nation mourned his death-not the scandals of Watergate or the assassinations my children have lived through.

the press they deserve. Nothing is more natural than to assimilate the present to the past, and to describe recent West German antiradical decrees as reminders of oppression, a whiff of neo-Nazism. But this is naive and lazy thinking. The inability of the Federal Republic to draw secure boundaries between civil liberties and public security reflects, not a partial relapse into Nazi habits of mind but, rather, frantic attempts to prevent such habits from re-emerging. Whatever threat to constitutional government and public decency there may be in West Germany, it comes not from the totalitarian right but the totalifarian ers as excessively solemn, but they are elements in a thoroughly healthy political education. Since it is politically necessarybowever emotionally trying to rethink the German question, I propose two principles to guide our reappraisal. For many years, foreign and German scholars have treated the "German character" as an inescapable product; the path from Luther to Hitler seemed long, perfectly straight. Indeed, "continuity" is probably the most agonizing issue dividing German historians today, yet even those who malign Bismarck as the father of Hitler uneasily suspect that German history is to those fortunate enough cal debate may strike foreign observ- really less simple.

In the 19th century, when Germany was the land of poets thinkers and administrators, the "German character" was a cause for benevolent burnor. Whatever anxiety foreign visitors or domestic critics felt in seeing the Germans' love of uniforms, devotion to work, and submissiveness to authority, readily dissolved in amuse-

In his report on Imperial Germany, "Three Men on the Bummel," the English essayist Jerome K. Jerome poked good-natured fun at German dogs staying off the grass and German birds mating in bird bouses provided by the Government for the purpose. And Emperor Wilhelm II struck the magazine Punch as a blustering, unpredictable buffoon.

Much ailed the Empire founded in 1871, but the Second Reich was not just the poisoned breeding ground for the Third. Germans were very different then, which makes it thinkable that they may be different once again.

Next, we should replace the facile singular, "the German," by the complex plural, "Germans." I am not suggesting that Germans are like everyone else or that, as masochists have said, "We are all guilty." To dissolve the Nazi tyranny in the human condition is as undiscriminating and foolish as to assimilate the United States of the 1960's to the Nazi Germany of the 1930's. Nor am I suggesting that the time has come to forgive Germans for Nazi barbarism. Some crimes are beyond forgiveness; there is no statute of limitations for the abettors of the Nazi regime.

But many Germans need no forgiveness. The memory of anti-Nazi martyrs like the Bonhoeffers, who sacrificed their lives for their principles, is justly cherished. And thousands of others ordinary, unheroic Germans, hated and detested the Nazis and lived decently through a terror that knew no pity and, by 1944, no self-control.

There were 5.000 Jews in Berlin during the war, in hiding or with manufactured "Aryan" identities: 1,400 of these survived, and each of them required a support system of resourceful and courageous gentile friends, aware that if they were caught committing acts of humanity they would be unceremoniously shot.

I think of these Germans, and the young, when I reject a single-minded historical determinism or a one-dimensicoal national character.

Germans, brooding on their past, acknowledge that they bave mastered it incompletely. Americans, brooding on Germans, should acknowledge the need to master their past thoughts of them, and conquer myth, and memory, by observation.

SENATE OVERRIDES VETO ON COAL FEES

.Votes, 75-18, for Rise in States' Part of Royalty. From Federal Lands

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP) —The Senate voted today to override President Ford's veto of a bill increasing the states share of royalties from private development of coal and other minerals on Federal land.

The vote was 75 to 18, or 13 more than the two-thirds required to override. A House vote is scheduled for tomorrow and is expected to be closer.

and is expected to be closer.

Mr. Ford complained in a veto message July 3 that the bill had so many burdensome provisions that "it would iohibit coal production on Federal land, probably raise prices for coosumers and ultimately delay our achievement of energy independence."

Senator Lee Metcalf, Demo-

senator Lee Metcalt, Democrat of Montana, and others urging the override said the President had misinterpreted the bill. Supporters o fthe legislation said there was on evidence that it would raise coal prices, and said that the law would help assure orderly mineral development and production on Federal lands.

After the bill was first approved by Coogress, Senator Clifford P. Haosen, Republican of Wyoming, was quoted in The Washington Post as saying be had promised Mr. Ford to deliver the votes of seven uncommitted Wyoming delegates to the Republican National Convention if the President signed the measure. After the article appeared, both Mr. Hansen and a Ford spokesman denied that any promise of delegates had been made.

Mr. Hansen, who usually supports the Presideot, voted to override and told the Senate the bill was good legislation.

One provision would increase the states' shares of Federal lease revenues to 50 percent. Mr. Hansen and other Western Senators said this was necessary to help state and local governments cope with the social and economic impact on small towns from increased coal production.

Beneficial in West

The change would have been potentially lucrative for Wyoming and other Western states with extensive Federal lands within their borders.

Mr. Ford sald the bill would restrict the flexibility of the Secretary of the Interior in setting terms of individual leases, would require production from leases within 10 years, force a detailed antitrust review of all proposed leases and establish an unnecessary Federal coal exploration program.

Other objections voiced by the President were that state governors would be allowed to delay the leasing process and that four sets of public hearings would be required for each

Supporters of the bill maintained that the objections raised by the President were unfounded.

Ford Wins on Highway Bill
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (UPI)
The House bowed today to a veto threat and voted to put a spending lid of $7.2 billion on highway building projects in the coming fiscal year. The ceiliog, demanded by Administratioo spokesmen, was part of a compromise $5.3 billion Department of Transportatioo appropriations bill that passed on a 384-to-9 vote and was sent to the Seoate for expected final Coogressional approval.

The House voted against a ceiling wheo it originally passed the bill, which is to fund Department of Transportation programs for the fiscal year 1977, starting Oct. I. The Seoate added the lid and House-Seoate conferees were unable to resolve the dispute.

Representative John J. McFall, Democrat of California, manager of the measure, proposed accepting the Senate ceiling with a provision that it will not apply if the House and Senate Public Works Committees come up with a maximum of their own before Oct. 1. The McFall proposal passed on a 226-167 vote.

The ceiling would affect only the trust funds raised by highway user taxes and used for highway construction. Transportation and budget officials warned that without the lid they would recommend that Presideot Ford veto the entire.

Major opponents of tha ceiling, such as Representatives
James J. Howard, Democrat of Jersey, and William H. Harsha Republican of Ohio, said Congress was surrendering to the executive branch the right to determine which highway projects will be carried out.

Bot Mr. McFall said appropriate authorizing committees could nulfify the ceiling by coming up with their own proposal before Oct. 1.

coming up with their own proposal before Oct. 1.

The highway lid is the major point of the bill. It also carries $575 million for Amtrak, with $62.6 million of that total earmaked for the Northeastern part of the couotry, and $400 million io loan guarantees for Conrail, the Government-backed corporation that takes over bankrupt rail lines.

Former Gov. Malcolm Wilson expisins legislative procedures to 100 teen-age Republicans in the State Senate chamber in Albany

It was Malcolm Wilson, and he bad come

The occasion was a model Legislature for 100 teeo-aged Republicans, sponsored by the Republican State Committee. Thirtysix of the young people sat at Senators' desks—the legal occupants are due back here at a special session tomorrow-and provided the former Governor with as respectful and attentive an audience as he had during the 15 years he presided over the Senate as Nelson A. Rockefeller's Lleutenant Governor.

A Practical Suggestion

They were so respectful, in fact, that they did not debate any bills during the half hour that Mr. Wilson presided. He did most of the work, instructing the clerk to call the titles of the bills, teaching the delegates about Senate procedure, and suggesting diplomatically how to improve the model session.

"I think we'd better have a few modifications," he said at one point, and at another: "I'd like to make what I would call a practical suggestion."

"Is there any discussion?" he would ask

Since then, Mr. Wilson has dropped from the view of the general public. His announcement two weeks ago that he was breaking with the eight other Republican delegates who are still uncommitted and would support President Ford at the Republican National Convention in Kansas City was the first time his name had surfaced in the newspapers in months.

But his disappearance has been of the most selective sort. He is still a major behind-the-scenes figure in Westchester County Republican politics. His calendar is crowded with speeches at Republican County dinners from the Bronx to Niagara, and he bas taken on party fund-raising events as a personal mission.

Meanwhile the N.H.P.A. has accepted one of Mr. O'Hara's recommendations. the hiring of Joe Goldstein, public-relations entrenceneur who specializes in sports. The hig object is horse-shoe pitching is to throw a ringer. The pitching distance is 40 feet for men, 30 for women and juniora. The horseshoe revolves in the air the way the pitcher chooses—three-quarters of a turn; 11/4 turns or 13/4 turns, countedclockwise for a righthander. As the shoe reaches the vicinity of the target—a spike one inch thick and 14 inches high and embedded in the ground—it has to turn so that the open end, 31/2 inches wide, is facing forward. The shoe strikes some part of the stake with a clank and it settles to the ground. If both ends of the shoe have passed the spike-that is, if a line drawn between th two ends should complete the circling of the spike-then the pitcher has a ringer. It's good for 3 points. A shoe that falls within 6 inches of the stake earns 1 point. Each pitcher has two shoes to throw, and often the players negate each other's scores. If Joe pitches two ringers and Harry also pitches two, there is no score. But if Joe pitches two then Joe gets credit for 3 points. In other words, a scora has to be exclusive. The same rule applies to shoes within 6 inches of the stake. A came is over when one player (or team) scores 50 This is sharp competition here. The best male throwers average better than four The favorite statistic is percentage—number of ringers against number of throws. Anyone with less than 75 to 80 percent proficiency cannot make it bere. It also is grueling competi-tion: Wally Shipley, president of the N.H.P.A., estimates. that in a major tournament

The Red Cross brought 99 wounded civilians, the first of more than a thousand, from the besieged Palestinian camp at Tell Zaatar to Moslem-controlled west Beirut, touching off an explosion of joy. The evacuees told of a water shortage for a month and oo medicine except salt. The cease-fire to bring the convoy across the lines did not extend to other fronts in Beirut and the mountains. The Peruvian Government, in power since 1968 as a revolutionary experiment, appears to be coming apart. The Government is under pressure from a consortium of United States private banks that are making strict economic and political demands in exchange for loans to cope with huge foreign debts. As the fortunes of the leftist military regime have declined, its dependence on Western financial institutions has become increasingly-clear. [1:1-2.]

The United States is selling the Chinesa Nationalist government on Taiwan arms, including an advanced air defense system intended to enable the island to defend itself against an attack from mainland China without American participation. Some Washington experts feel this may help account for indications that Peking is hardening its position on reunification in the belief that only military force can accomplish it. [1:2-4.]

Pennsylvania and Federal epidemiologists intensified their search for a virus believed to be the cause of the mysterious flu-like disease afflicting many who attended an American Legion convention in Philadelphia. The death toll rose to 20, with another 115 hospitalized, some in serious condition. Laboratory tests to be completed in two days may provide an answer. Pennsylvania's Health Secretary said there was no evidence of further spread of the disease. [1:3.]

Rogers C. B. Morton, President Ford's campaign manager, conceded that neither he nor his challenger, Ronald Reagan, would be able to "lock up" the Republican Presidential nomination before the convention. This retreat was underscored by the latest-findings of a New York Times canvass indicating a and of Ford support in the Northeast since half of 1974. [1:8.]

the choice of Senator Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania ss the Reagan running mate. Nationally, the number of uncommitted delegates has been creeping upward. [1:5-6.]

President Ford asked Congress for new legislation requiring United States husinesses to report all substantial payments in foreign countries designed to aid sales to foreign governments, whether "proper or improper." The reports would include names of recipi-ents and could be disclosed to foreign governments. In most cases they would be made public after a year. [1:4.]

The Federal Trade Commission and Justice Department approved an antitrust investigation of the nation's automobile makers. The General Motors Corporation, controlling more than half the domestic market, was thought to be the prime target. Its chairman, Thomas A. Murphy, said he expected to be able to show that the industry was competitive and within the law. [1:7.]

Those who took control of Howard R. Hughes's huge fortune on his death are meeting in Las Vegas to try to untangle the golden threads of his empire. They must deal with problems including an indictment of the late industrialist and one of his top aides for market manipulation, the drain of paying for some of his whims and an inheritance tax bill that could take three quarters of the estate. [1:5-6.]

Leaders of 18,000 municipal hospital workers said they would defy the State Supreme-Court restraining order obtained by New York City and go ahead with the walkout scheduled for this morning. The issue was layoffs, with the union rejecting a compromise proposal reducing the number to 1,350. Mayor Beame made a statement implyingthat a strike would mean even more. [1:8.]

The Securities and Exchange Commission charged the former head of the investment department of the Fidelity Union Trust Company and three others with rigging fictitious transactions to cover up losses of $3.3 miltion in the Newark bank's municipal bond portfolio. The complaint filed in Federal Court in Newark cited a sizable overstatement of the parent Fidelity Union Bancorposoftening of Reagan support in the South ration's earning and asset value in the first

Nursing-Home Head Indicted for Fraud Of Kind He Decried

A nursing-home operator who testified last year as a would-be reformer of the industry was indicted yesterday for allegedly engaging in the same practices he had denounced.

The operator, Nicholas Demlsay of the Clove Lakes Nursing Home on Staten Island, was accused of having defrauded Medicaid of $55,000 by submitting false bills, including salaries for personal maids, apartment rent listed as "medical supplies" and disguised payments to his wife.

Mr. Demisay surreodered at the office of Charles J. Hynes, the special prosecutor for nurs-ing homes, and was arraigned before Justice Miltoo Mollen of State Supreme Court on Staten Island. He pleaded not guilty. The Cloves Lakes home has been regarded by state officials as providing a relatively high level of care and Mr. Demisay has been regarded as a maverick in the industry. At a hearing of the Temporary State Commission on Living Costs in January 1975 he testified that he had resigned as a vice president and member of the Metro-politan New York Nursing Home Association because it had covered up abuses.

According to the witness, one meeting of officers in 1970 or thereabouts discussed "an embarrassing situation" - that some operators of small nursing homes were reporting profits of $150,000 a year. Mr. Demisay quoted Solomon Heisler, a major operator, as saying, We should show them bow to make out an HE-2 form." The form is the cost report submitted each year by operators, on the basis of which their Medicaid rates are calculated.

Yesterday's indictment charged Mr. Demisay with fil-ing false HE-2 reports during indictment the years 1971 through 1973, as a result of which he was allegedly overpaid from 1971 to

We think we've got all the critically injured out," said E.M. Stiger of the Forest Service, who is director of the airlift efforts, "We feel we've got all but 50 of the evacuees out."

Most of the evacuees were tourists or canyon residents who initially refused rescue. They bad ample fnod and water in the canyon and were in good condition, Sheriff Watson said.

WESTPORT, Conn., Aug. 3 -Westport's all-star teenage softball team has won pionship in the Little League's girls' softball pro-gram and has touched off a controversy—all because 10 of the 14 Westport players are boys.

The dispute, which has heen simmering for some time, boiled over on Saturday after Westport's all-stars won the title by defeating the all-girl Durham all-stars, 5 to 4, at Durham's Atwell Field. Durham's fans reportedly kicked up such a fuss, showering the Westport players with catcalls of "fag"

and "pretty boy," that the team of 13-to 15-year-olds was hustled off the field be-fore picking up the tropby. "There is no room in children's sports for actions such as this," Donald Levy, West-port's Little League chairman, said today in announcing that the Westport all-stars were being withdrawn from competition because, "the national league could not guarantee it would not happen again."

The problem started two years ago when Westport de-cided to use the Littla League's softball program, as an experiment in unisex sports competition.

Although the program was designed with girls in mind —at a time of feminist protest against Little League baseball's all-boy policy—there was nothing in the league's charter about the sex of the softball players.

As a result, the Westport program was opeo to both sexes and players were judged strictly on individual ability.

Elderly Ederle Fan Meets Heroine

By PRANAY GUPTE 1t took Mildred Cook 50 years to meet ber childhood heroine, hut yesterday, her face streaming with tears, she finally shook hands with Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English Channel. For both women, yesterday was a time for memories, although they each remem-bered different things about the same event, Mrs. Cook, a resident of Flushing, Queens, recalled, for example, a haimy summer day in 1926 when New York gave Miss Ederle a rousing homecoming parade.

"There she was, waving at the crowds, waving at me!" Mrs. Cook said. "I had Mrs. Cook said. skipped my eighth-grade class just to see her."

But for Miss Ederle, who was bonored yesterday at a civic luncheon on the 50th anniversary of her epic swim, tion bestowed on her. To her, however, the 1926 parade was a silent tribute because the 14-hour-25 minute swim across the turbulent waters heard of the ceremony of the channel had rendered her deaf.

"I remember the sea of faces," she said, "and I could see them all cheering, but I couldn't hear them.' Scenes from that parade were contained in a film that was shown at the luncheon. which was sponsored by the Flushing Chamber of Commerce at Breslin's Restaurant off Main Street in Flushing.

Miss Ederle, whose hearing is still impaired, provided a running commentary to the film, which traced her aquatic efforts from France to England. Afterward, many of the 200 or so guests remarked how unchanged Miss Ederle's face appeared to be

So, once the film had ended and the speeches of tribute hy various community officials had been made, Mrs. Cook joined a line to shake her heroine's band.

The line moved slowly. Then it was Mrs. Cook's turn. Her hands trembled. Just as Miss Ederle reached out, Mrs. Cook burst into tears. "Hello," Miss Ederle said and quickly turned to the next in line. Mrs. Ccok moved aside and dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief

FreshVegetables: How to Enhance The

"A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot!" —Thomas Edward Brown (1830-1897)

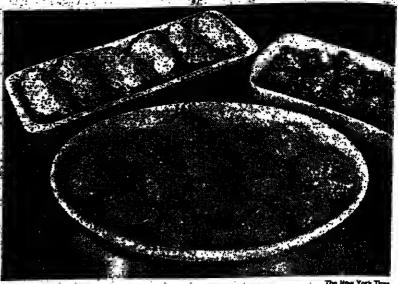

But weeding is a loathsome thing, and we do not have a green thumb, God wot! If anything, we have what is best described by our friends as a blight thumb. And yet in mid-summer we can revel in the delights of a garden, particularly somebody else's, commercial or not

The good things a garden provides are coming in full blast plump, shiny skinned, purple eggplants, tomatoes fairly bursting with goodness, and gloriously green sweet peppers regionally known as "bell" peppers because of their

There are few things, to our mind, more gratifying than vegetables, fresh from the soil, stuffed with a savory wellseasoned meat filling. Recently we participated in a veritable orgy of stuffed vegetables, an assortment of three served at the same meal: lamb-stuffed eggplant; ham-and-ricestuffed tomatoes; and green peppers stuffed with a parsley and Italian sausage filling.

Such dishes are not only delectable, they are also economical. And, if possible, leftover stuffed vegetables are, to some tastes, more delectable the next day, hot or cold.

Why the City Ended A 'Nuisance Tax' On Designer Fees

repealing taxes io this finaocially beleaguered city are about as likely as a rollback in transit fares, the City Council voted unanimously late last mooth to get rid of one levy—a tax on interior design and decoration services. Mayor Beame signed the

The year-old tax meant that designers and decorators had to pay 4 percept of every fee collected for a service, and naturally they tacked the payment onto clients' bills. Purchase of merchandise was exempt because it was already covered by the 8 percent sales tax.

But the service tax ultimately would bave cost the city more than it would have gained, according to Henry J. Stern, Manhattan City Councilman-at-Large, who bad opposed inclusion of design services in the original bill and who pushed hard to get them excluded.

Mounts Up

"It was a nuisance tax--but with a difference," Councilman Stern, a former First Deputy Commissioner of Con-sumer Affairs, said. "Nuisance taxes are usually measured in pennies. There is a tax on haircuts, but people won't go to Philadelphia to save 40 cents. But if someone has cootracted for $20,-000 worth of design services a year, the tax would be $800, so the consumer would probably say, We can go to a design company in West-

"There was also great fear the design businesses would move out of the city, and New York designers and decorators have a multiplier effect because they buy from New York suppliers."

Total reveoues generated the tax have not been tabulated, but the city re-ceived $139,000 for the March through May quarterly period. The cost to the industry in assignments lost, industry spokesmen estimat-ed, are far greater.

Although no precise figures are available, John Elmo, a vice president of the New York Metropolitan Chapter of the American Society of

Although the prospects for Interior Designers, speculated that the annual cost to the industry would be heavy enough "to hasten the exodus to other cities. It could result in a loss of 6,600 jobs with a city tax loss of $2.82 million," Mr. Elmo said that he had lost a $100,000 job two months ago to an architecture firm that was not subject to the tax. "I know incidents where designers have out telling the client rather than lose the job, and I know six or eight designers who opened secoodary offices in other cities to escape it," he

The American Society of Interior Designers beld a rally last winter to raise funds for lobbyists to cam-paign for abolition of the easure and to ward off other legislatioo.

Beside potential losses to the city, the tax was also discriminatory, Councilman Stern explained, because it did oot apply to in-bouse de-signers employed by corpora-tions nor to architects, who are qualified to do the same work. "So it reached only one segment of the people providing the service," be

The tax, which will expire on Aug. 3I, was suddenly abolished last mooth, wheo finance committee and City Council sessions were coovened with little advance ootice to extend the one-year provisioo. It will cootinue to inclode detective and protective and credit and collection services. ("It was as if they went through the C's and D's in the phone book looking for someone to tax," Councilman Stern said.")

Just bow much the move will save the consumer who is decorating a bome is murky because the tax pertaioed only to pure design work, such as planoing a total layout and possibly its constructioo, and not to the direct purchase of furnishlngs. Time spent io the mar-ket was taxable in some cases and not lu others, depending among other fac-tors, on how the desigoers decorators structure

For Tots: Zip On, Zip Off

What do you get when you cross a chil-dren's wear designer with a playground architect? Why, unusual children's play clothes, of course.

Recently, Roth Scharf, who has ber own children's wear company, joined M. Paul Friedberg, the playground designer and landscape architect, to see what they could come up with.

"We wanted to do something that would be functional as well as doing something for the child," said Mr. Friedberg, who was teamed with Miss Scharf by Saks Fifth Avenue. The result was a variety of ootfits and styles, all of which are encompassed within three basic outfits by virtue of addon and subtract-from components. The arithmetic is accomplished by zippers. And to this they added "pockets for all occasions," which buttoo on and off. The outfits come in toddler sizes 2 to 4.

Button-On Band

One item is long pants in denim. When the legs are zipped off, the pants become shorts. The pants come with a button-oo, sectioned band, for holding sand shovels, miniature tools or whatever.

Then there is a short-sleeved jumpsuit striped like mattress ticking. The legs zip off this outfit, too, to make a sbort jump-suit for warmer weather. The pocket that goes with this is a cheery red vinyl oo ooe side, denim oo the other in the shape of a Incideotally, all the legs are interchange-able, so toddlers who like to create their own fashions can walk around with one denim leg and one striped one, or combine atriped legs with decim pants, or denim legs with the striped jumpsuit.

The third item is a loog-sleeved striped jacket with a denim hood. The hood buttons off, the sleeves zip off, and voilà, a little short-sleeved top. This ooe has a button-on backpack to carry the necessaries for hikes and small explorations.

Among the interchangeable pockets they projected as possibilities were: pockets that hold games (those are for loog automobile trips or periods of enforced sitting. Mr. Friedberg explained), pockets that hold pad and pencil: knapsack pockets that turn into an aproo, or that inflate into a pillow; or a pocket that holds a little raincoat.

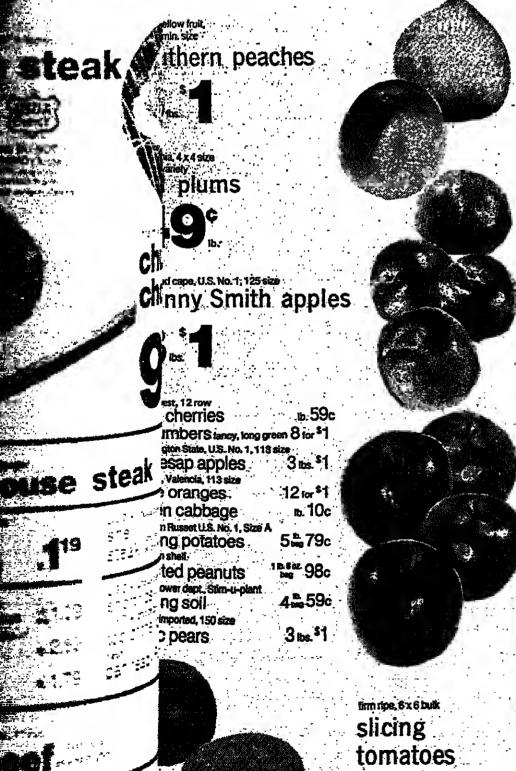

None of these are yet in production, but Mr. Friedberg feels the team bave scarcely begun to explore what cao be done. The pants with tool holder are $16, the umpsuit is $26, and the hooded jacket is $21. The clothing will be in Sak's second

Zany New Dinnerware Watches as Eater Eat

Dansk is rephrasing that byword of the Bauhaus, "Less is more." "Less," the design company says, "is enough."

What's being referred to is Dansk's. new concept in dinnerware. What makes it different is that the total place setting n univerent is that the total place setting consists of only three pieces: a dinner plate, a capacious soup bowl and a big mug. That's it. All you need for any kind of dining, short of formal, the company maintains.

It's an appealing idea, this simplifying, this paring down.

The plate, because it has some depth, can be used not only for regular entree service, but also for salads, stews, spa-ghetti and anything else that has a tend-ency to run over the edge.

The bowl is big enough for a soup lunch and can also be pressed into serv-ice for cereals or salad. Perhaps dessert, too, if you have a giant sweet tooth. As to the mug, which is equivalent to a cup and a half, Dansk suggests it can not only be used for the usual beverages, but might also hold cold soup or even iced drinks.

The stoneware, which is being hand-crafted by a small workshop in Japan, is a motiled neutral, banded in dark brown, terra cotta or cobalt. It's being sold tied up in heavy twine, in the style of Japanese packaging, and a three-piece place setting is $15.95. Altman's has it, and is expecting some serving pieces late this month.

Bonwit Teller is also offering a threepiece, handcrafted dinner set, which, like the Dansk, consists of dinner plate, bowl and handle-less cup: But beyond the coincidence of numbers, nothing could be more different from Dansk's rugged-looking stoneware than the por-celain designed by Lynn Hershman, a California artist, and executed by Di-anne Flyre, a potter:

In one design, a pair of glassy bare eyes protrudes from an off-white plate or bowl (one eye stares out from the handle-less cup). In another design, hungry pink mouths, some with marvelous-ly real teeth, rim the plate. In another, a toothy mouth chomps at the plate and bowl, leaving an irregular, bitten edge in its wake.

There are 10 designs in all, each zanier than the next, done in limited editions of 500. The price for the three-piece plate setting (plate, bowl and cup) is

Tips About Cars On U.S. Hot Line

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3-If the car's engine has a chronic vrivheeze or the auto dealer not honor the manufacturer's warranty, the National Highway Traffic

- Safety Administration has some advice—free of charge. The advice-via toll-free inhot line, (800) 424-9398—is, of course, no magic solution for all the problems that beisiege the car-driving public, zichut it does provide an sasily. "-accessible source of authoritative information on a variety of auto-related problems.

The hot line was given a 10-state test trial last year, mand, according to Gilbert Watson, the official who is masterminding it, the results of that experiment show that nothe agency's staff is somewhat successful in helping callers reach a satisfactory solution to their problems. ..... If the problem is with the -Emanufacturer, Mr. Watson West'd, the odds of reaching "some form of accommodaretion" are about 50-50. "We get a high degree of comparasodion" from the manufacturers, Mr. Watson asserted, but

-ke added that some callars had unsolvable problems because of unformded empecta-"tions or because the owner had the misfortune to be stuck with a known lemon.

Cails a Lemon e Lemon

But just the knowledge that the car is a recognized lemon can sometimes be beneficial. For example, when a caller with a certain make and complains that the wheels constantly need rea-ligning and the oracles are always wearing down, the five hot-line operators can inform the caller, if the cor is no longer under trarranty, that there is an inherent problem with that particular model, that it cannot be fixed and that the best solution may be to sell the car.

Reversing that example, Mr. Watson explained that the operators would also warn the potential buyer of tho same model used car Chout the oriects.

Mr. Watson refuses to spains a judgment on the best for safest automobiles to buy, he says the people who eddswer the phones will an-Swer questions shout specific akes and models.

These people, who are not have an enormous amount computer information and ferature at their fingentips. will not try to diagnose car ilments over the phone. Sometimes their resocuse will be to refer the caller to local consumer protection

But the hot-line personnel can also identify the 15 railfroo or so cars on the road that have been the subject of a manufacturer's recall and never had the safety de-fect corrected, Mr. Watson

The agency does more than ast discense information over the phones.

Complaints are being funnaled into a computer that will http the agency identify patterns of failure that could be dangerous and that may call regulations.

Banks Criticized By Pensioners

Careful shopping for a bank is the only remedy available at the moment for those among the 4.5 million adderly critizens who have their Social Security checks deposited directly into their accounts and are suffering from the failure of some panks to handle the accounts

A Treasury Department spokesman, John Plum, eaid that the Secretary had not yet formulated a response to Mr. Reuss, but that this was "not a major problem." How-ever, be acknowledged that there were some "tempo-rary" problems that would be ironed out by December at which time six million people are empected to be participat-

The committee suggests making sure that the bank has a policy of mailing deposit silps, not just a monthly statement, to the customer, that the bank will forward all additional mate-al for the Social Security Administration, that the bank's policy is to credit the account the same day the Sococount the same day the So-cial Security check arrives in the mail and that there are no additional service charges for handling the coecks or making a phone call to ascer-tain whether the Social Se-curity check has been depos-tred.

He also suggests that if elderly citizens have had a problem with a "direct deposit" account, that they write to the committee, 2129 Rayburn House Office Build-

Lawsuit Charges Byrne With Fib on Income Tax

HACKENSACK, N.J., Aug. 3 (UPI)-Joho Morrison of Wycott, N.J., a lawyer, has filed a lawsuit against the new state income tax, charging Governor Byrne had told a fib when he had said in his 1973 election campaign that he did not foresee the need for the levy.

Mr. Morrisoo filed the class action suit yesterday on behalf of al taxpayers in the state. The suit also called for Mr. Byrne's recall from office "on grounds he sied" to the voters.

Mr. Byrne, who said during his campaign that the state did not need an income tax "in the foreseeable future," began his drive for the income tax in his seconn year in office,

The suit, which also names the Legislature as a defendant, says the new tax is unconstitutional because the lawmakers enacted the tax last month without holding public heariogs or a voter referendum on the issue.

WINE TALK

Labeling: The Wine Industry Answers Back

By FRANK J. PRIAL

On July 14, the space was given over to some remarks on the labeling of American wices and the current discussions between the wine industry and the Federal Government on the subject. The column suggested in part, that we should not call jug wines "burgundy" or "cha-blis," that we should not call our sparkling wine "champagne," and that it should not be possible for a vintner to put the designation "cabernet sauvignon" on a bottle that contains 49 percent of something else.

The article noted that the dialogue seemed to involve the industry and the Government, but rarely the consumer, and it voiced some con-cern over the possible relaxation of some existing appellations used to indicate on a just where the wine came from.

The California Wine Institute, the promotional arm of the California wine industry, has charged in a reply that the column was "unioformed, oversimplified and factually wrong.

Description of Flavor

"I don't understand how you can say that the consum-er 'is considered least' when it is a consumer product that we are selling," a spokesman

This, of course, bas been the position of many American businesses since the rise of the consumer movement:

The consumer is free to accept or reject our product, the argument goes. If he acand should not be attacked by do-gooders or government regulations. In his letter the Wine Institute official suggested that the name of a grape variety (such as pinot noir or chardonnay) on a bottle "while related to the availability of grapes, is more importantly used to describe a certain flavor characteristic attributed to the grape variety."

He goes on to say that "some people, for whatever reason, would like to see us immediately hung by our own thumbs by insisting on '100 percent' or '95 percent' while the top wines of Europe blend, and blend, and blend . . . both varieties and Monterey Vineyards calls its attractive white blend "DelMar Ranch," and Bernard Fetzer calls his popular low-priced red blend "Mendocino Premium Red." Ingredient labeling, down to the chemicals used in fermentation, which can vary from barrel to oarrel, could be a considerable burden on the industry, as the Wine Institute has made clear. But would it be so difficult to says that this bottle contains so much chardonnay, so much chenin blanc and so much sauvignon blanc? Sioce so many dedicated winemakers already do this is it far-fetched for the consumer to expect the rest of the industry eventually follow suit?

When the idea of publicized ing the recall of certain defective automobile models was first proposed, the autoindustry was alternately amused and outraged. But i was done and the industry has learned to live with it It may cost us all more, but we probably get safer cars

Since its inception some years ago, this column had been a coostant proponent of California wices and the me who make them. Recent years have seen a great in crease in the interest in and consumption of fine American wines in an Eastern mar ket once considered by the industry to be hopelessly European-oriented.

No attempt will ever made here to denigrate damage the American win industry. Which does no mean that it is perfect.

S.E.C. Accounting Rule Irks Business

By ROBERT METZ

Although businessmen seldom welcome added reportduties, the resentment over the new Securities and Exchange Commission rule requiring large companies to estimate the impact of infla-tion on their business appears to be unusually strong. The rule calls for replacement cost accounting on inventories, productive capacity, cost of sales and depreciation tion for corporations with property and inventories of more than $100 million. The National Association of Accountants has found in a mail survey of 1,000 of the nation's largest corporations that financial officers generally feel that the rule will prove costly to implement.

In the 279 answers to the In the 279 answers to the survey, 6 percent of the respondents said extra auditing expenses would come to more than $200,000 a year, 15 percent said $50,000 to $200,000, and another 15 percent estimated the annual cost at $10,000 to $50,000.

A large proportion of those surveyed said they doubted the usefulness of the forthcoming information because the S.E.C. did not set guide. for calculating the costs. Consequently corpora-tions may use varying meth-

Most of the companies that have already decided how to present the information said they would furnish the bare

More than half of the respondents said they thought that the effect of the S.E.C. rule on their most recently reported annual earnings would be negative.

Most of the executives who answered the survey sought anonymity, but some were willing to be quoted. D. G. Southern, corporate control-ler of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Los Angeles said the data would confuse readers because: "1) It is not a complete restatement. 2) Companies do not replace all productive capacity at once; thus, it is misleading 3) The available techniques for estimation are too fuzzy to make companies' information comparable."

L. A. Haba, vice president and controller of Paccar Inc. of Bellevue, Wash., comment-ed that "as usual" the S.E.C. had issued directives without guidelines and that therefore there would be no commonality among companies.

Leooard R. Hutchinson,

I. A. Engelhardt, vice president and controller of Consolidated Papers, was in the minority with the comment that the step, while expensive and time consuming pensive and time consuming for staff personnel, would be a "positive step in educating the public and antibusiness legislators in the facts of business life."

R. C. Thompson of the Shell Oil Company, Houston, pointed out that the S.E.C. rule covered only selected data and thus would not reflect inflation's full impact on earnings.
"For example, if a con-cern's productive capacity were replaced with modern facilities, all cost elements would change. However, the S.E.C. requirements can be satisfied by estimating only the depreciation element.

"In addition, the ruling does not deal with inflation's impact on monetary items and the S.E.C. has purposely avoided the problem of holding gains on nonmonetary items. In addition, those of us in the extractive industries will not include assets that are related to our mineral reserves for at least one

"One of the real dangers of this ruling is that the public will utilize these partial ad-justments to calculate an erroneous and misleading net income. We understand the S.E.C. staff is trying to dis-courage this misapplication." Mr. Thompson added that there was a "great need" for tax revisions that properly

"However we do not favor a system that is based on subjective judgments of re-placement costs or values. This would create constant conflict and litigation as it did in the early 1920's when values were the basis for petroleum company income taxes. Therefore, we would prefer a method that was based on a precise verifiable, mathematical procedure, mathematical procedure, such as an equitable indexing of historical costs," he said.

SOYBEAN FUTURES CLOSE WITH A GAIN

'Technical' Rise Is Seen by Some Traders-Silver Off

By ELIZABETH M. FOWLER After their recent sharp decline, soybean prices posed a guestion yesterday when they closed higher. November beans, which had dropped the daily 20-cent limit the previous day; regained 121/2 cents to end at $6.12½ a bushel. On Monday the close was $6.

The question in traders' minds was whether the market had bottomed out after a de-cline of about $1.77 a bushel in this November contract and declines in other months.

Some traders called the upswing yesterday a "technical" rebound; others spoke of an oversold market. Still others cited good demand for soybean oil, giving beans some underlying strength. Over the weeken Iran purchased at least 50,000 tons of soybean oil, and yester day in Europe competing oils were priced higher, always a factor in markets here.

Tight Holding by Farmers In addition, the tight holding of beans by farmers, who always bope for higher prices, "The farmers just refused to believe in the recent selloff." When they do not like the price, farmers, if they can

The New York Times

The Sony Corporation of America and the Paramount Pictures Corporation announced yesterday the for-mation of the Sony-Paramount Home Entertainment Center.

Harvey L. Schein, president of the American subsidiary of the Sony Corporation of Tokyo, and Barry Diller, chairman of Paramount, a Gulf & Western Industries subsidiary, said the new com-pany would distribute video hardware, feature motion picture films and education software as a package for the consumer market. In an interview in New York, Mr. Schein acknowledged that the move was aimed at demonstrating the merits of video tape over videodiscs expected to appear soon. Videodiscs will offer prepackaged films, but will not be able to record offthe air programming. The new company is embarking on a test market program to select locations for developing market strategies aod business plans.

Mr. Schein indicated that the films offered to home users would be "certainly more receot than those on regular TV" but market tests would determine their timeliness as against films offered on pay-TV.

Sony will supply the hard-ware using its Betamax video-recorder-player and accessory equipment as a basic unit. But Mr. Schein indicated that market research might find there is need for different hardware as well.

"Hopefully, we would offer films like the Book-of-the-Month Club offers books or Columbia Records offers records," he added. "We'll stress the fact that video tapes can be reused as the consumer wants for an inhome entertainment device."

Bulova Watch Sets Up New Subsidiary

The Bulova Watch Com-pany Inc., said that it was proceeding with plans to set up a oew subsidiary, the Bulova Systems and Instrumeots Corporation, to carry out classified and oon-classified contracts for the United States Government and other contractors.

The new subsidiary will offset the recent invalidation of Bulova's security clearance when 26.8 percent of the company's stock, which had been acquired by the Gulf and Western Corporation, was sold to foreign interests. Uoder Defeose Department regulations, companies, where

Sea Container Talks To Maritime Creditors

The recent proposal by Sea Containers Inc., to take over the Maritime Fruit Carrier Company's fleet of refriger-ated cargo vessels, has not yet been accepted by credi-tors of the financially trou-bled American-Israeli ship James B. Sherwood, president of Sea Containers, said at a news conference in London.

Sea Containers announced on July 20 a plan to form a Bermuda-based company in partnership with Maritime Fruit to take over ownership or operating control of 21 of Maritime's refrigerated ships. #### Rolls Engine May Go In McDonnell Planes LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)— The McDonnell Douglas Corporatioo said today that if British Airways bought its DC-10 jetliner, it would put Rolls-Royce engines and other British components in it, helping the British economy and providing 20,000 jobs.

McDonnell Douglas and the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation are competing for a British Airways contract for an undisclosed number of wide-bodied jets. Lockheed hopes to sell its TriStar jet to the government-owned airline, which now has several supersonic Concordes. #### Britain's Reserves Gain LONDON, Aug. 3 (UPI)-

Britain's currency reserves rose by $58 million last month, the Treasury announced today, but the gain was a result of massive borrowing without which the reserves would have fallen substantially.

It was not disclosed bow much was spent during July to defend the pound, but evidence points to some Bank of England intervention to help maintain sterling's recovery from the record lows earlier this year. It also seems evident that there was less use of reserves than in June, when the Bank of England made a $1.5 hillion drawing on the $5.3 hillion standby credit it received from foreign central banks.

There'e always an element of risk in direct response advertising. The idea is to make it less chancy.

Think, therefore, of the solid ground you'll be on when you launch your free-standing inserts in the Sunday New York Times.

The Times carries your promotion home to 4,505,000 readers whose median household income is $20,852...73 per cent higher than the national figure.

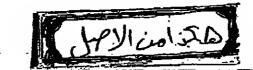

That's if you choose nationwide distribution for your free-standing insert. But d you elect partial distribution, you have your choice of eight smaller, though important, markets, each populated with high-income, responsive Times readers. And now, under a new plan, you can zero in on a number of key metropolitan markets, and shave your distribution down to as few as 50,000 copies if you Think of what it would cost to reach these quality prospects if you went the direct mail route. #### Advertising

Lawyers, having settled most of the world's other problems, are quietly infil-trating the advertising agency business.

Usually they find them-selves in high decision-making posts, frequently in administration but also on the marketing side. Recently Charles Fredericks, who long ago gave up the law for the excitement of marketing, moved out of Oglivy & Mather to be presi-dent and chief operating offi-cer of Wells, Rich, Greene, Don Durgin, who never practiced law, but was president of the NBC-TV network, bepresident of McCaffrey & McCall a year ago.

So they now share the lofty heights long ago attained by Lawrence Spector of DKG, a tax lawyer and certified pubaccountant, who joined his agency as controller when it was still a sales promotion firm and grew with it. Tom Dillon, chief execu-tive of BBDO International, is no lawyer-as a matter of fact he's an ex-newspaper-man-but he knows how valuable they can be to an agency. James R. Schule, who died in 1970, had been the agency's outside counsel, came inside and ended up executive vice president in charge of operations.

Such a man's strong point Mr. Dillon noted, is his training in logic and analysis that enables him to cope with all types of situations.

"Agencies," said Mr. Dillon, "usually train specialists not generalists and we need someone with a perspective not narrowly defined by a specialty."

Today, Raymond J. Malo-ney Jr., another lawyer, is doing some of the things that Mr. Schule had done, serving BBDO as director of public

Mr. Fredericks sees the legal training in much the light as Mr. Dillon. "It helps a great deal," he said. "In the marketing husiness you have to walk around a problem and that's what they teach you in law school—to study a problem from every angle."

For Donald M. Zuckert, executive vice president-cor-porate affairs of Ted Bates & Company, still practices a little law on the outside. His legal training, he believes, belps him to be more incisive in getting across ideas.

Lawyers Widen Agency Role

Kopp Is Named Leo Burnett Chief

There are few agency jobs as important as chief executive of the Leo Burnett Company, especially in Chicago. And yesterday C. R. Jack Kopp, 55-year-old president took over that job at the home of the Joily Green Giant and the Mariboro Manthe country's third-largest. -the country's third-largest agency, which ranks fourth worldwide among American agencies. He has also been named chairman of the executive committee.

The Chicago-based shop, with $623 million in billings, has been Jack Kopp's em-ployer since he joined it in 1955 as an account executive, having traveled east from Wisconsin for the job. In recent years he's been moving up fast from ex-ecutive vice president-client services in 1970 to president of Leo Burnett, U.S.A., in 1973, to president of tha parent company last year. He is only the third chief executive in the company's 41-year history. The founder is still in marketing, but because of his background, he is also involved in international real estate. The agency's financial and legal departments report to him.

The J. Waiter Thompson Company likes to move its lawyers into other fields. John F. Devine, now retired, had headed the legal department and then was instru-mental in establishing the Radio/TV Department. He ended up an executive vice president in administration.

Thornton B. Wierum, now a senior vice president in charge of administration of J.W.T./West, took a similar route to his present job.

He is in no way acting as a lawyer, he said, but he has "the advantage of seeing there may be legal problems in some matter and getting it to the lawyers before the hlems can develop.

"The legal background helps you go through a set of complicated facts and see which the important issues are and the the relative merits of them. In administration it is important to see issues and alternatives and weigh them properly before coming to a decision."

Although Robert A. Jelinek, a senior vice president at Young & Rubicam, is general he is also on the executive and finance committees and gets administrative tasks.

The American Bar Association, said yesterday that it had no research on what per cent of law school graduates go into husiness but did cite a 1968 Harvard Law School survey of alumni that showed only 8.86 percent going the business route. An "informal" survey of its own, the association said, showed the preferred nonlegal fields to be real estate, insurance and tax work.

And working in an agency has got to be as fun-filled as those three.

Oglivy Earnings Gain

Beautiful, beautiful 1976 is really shaping up to be a winner for the agency business, not necessarily on the creative or regulatory sides, but where it counts—in the money bags

Today Ogilvy & Mather is reporting record second-quarter earnings, as its 13 percent increase in gross revenue over the same period last year, $27.8 million, hrings in a net income of $1.9 million or $1.02 per share compared to 77 cents, a 33.6

For the half, gross revenues were up slightly more (13.8 percent) to $52 million while he net income rose 29.8 percent to $2.9 million, or $1.49 a share, from $2.3 million.

Peddlers and Stores Are Both Bitter The peddler is also a source of annoyance to the city's name. "I make $10 to $15 a day clear out of $30 to $40 business, but the cops are always after you. I wouldn't do this if I could get a decent job. Do you know how many young guys are unemployed in New York?"

Unhappy as the peddlers are, merchants are equally unhappy about their presence, which they regard as a big An estimated 25,000 peddlers are working the city's streets, but only 20 percent of them have been licensed by the City Department of Consumer Affairs, a depart-ment spokesman said yestercontinue their trade.

The big merchants are especially upset because, they contend, police enforcement against unicensed peddlers and peddlers operating in rethe city's code. stricted areas has lagged in recent months, partly as a result of reduced follow-up of summonses by the court system. "The situation has had a deteriorating effect on major shopping streets, such as 14th Street, 34th Street and Lexington Avenue," com-plained Max L. Shulman, chairman of J. W. Mays Inc., a seven-store retail chain in the city and shuths.

"The peddiers create a fleamarket atmosphere, and they litter the sidewalks with cartons and debris that we have to get rid of. Many of them are unlicensed and few of them pay sales or in-come taxes. They're parasites living off the legitimate

Philip Kaplan, senior vice president of the Korvette stores, called the peddler sitnation "an absolute shame." He declared: They stand outside our store on 34th Street, block the entrances and take away some of our business. None of them pays the city and state sales taxes, and thousands of dollars of revenue are lost to New York City and the state. Yet the police tell us that they do not have the manpower to adequately enforce violations. We've complained to City

nl "The peddler cheapens the neighborhoods and takes advantage of the legitimate department stores," asserted D. Kenneth Patton, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, a trade association.

nl "We're upset at the vol-ume of peddlers on the city's streets," he added, "They're mostly unlicensed and willing to pay the small fine so that they can go right back working the trade. An urgent program of control is needed." He suggested arrests, sequestoring of goods and a study of how much tax revenues was evaded.

For a fee of $2 to $10 at the Department of Consumer Affairs, anyone may obtain license as long as he or she produces evidence of legal residence in the United States. But selling may be conducted only in areas that are not restricted by the city's Administrative Code and amendments. There are approximately 125 restricted areas, running from half a block to 20 blocks each, with 50 in Manhatten, 50 in the Bronx, 20 in Brooklyn and 5 in Queens. The borough of Richmond is not restricted by

More Restrictions

In addition, the code bars peddlers from all major shop-ping areas, such as 59th Street and Lexington Ave-nue, upper Fifth Avenue or Herald Square. No licensee may operate within 500 feet of any public or enclosed market nor within 500 feet of any park, parkway, beach boardwalk or playground.
And peddlers may not trade within 100 feet of any store selling the same commodity or any public or private school while in session or a house of worship if services are under way. But, as any New Yorker knows, these restrictions are often violated

But interviews with a number of peddlers in Manhattan drew either demurrals or scoffing reactions to the purported violations. "If we're cheapening the area and ripping off the cus-tomers," asked one, "why do people keep buying from us? People want lower-priced merchandise, and we answer that need." "I'm not a peddler," said Collie Toland, of Norwalk, Conn., who sold jewelry at a small stand in Times to $50 a day. I'm proud of what I sell. Who needs a license? I come down here every day during the sum-mer, and I make out fine. My family is in the cosmetics business, but I love making jewelry. Nearby, a heavy-set man, who refused to identify him-was selling bronze medallion buckles and belts at $2.50 each and was doing a brisk business. "I offer a good valoe and a good prod-uct," he said. "I have 10 stands like this, and I also do a wholesale husiness. I pay the owner of the store here to let me sell in front of his window. Who's complaining? Not him and not

David Lindberg, a 15-yearold high-school student of Beach Channel, Brooklyn, said that he didn't know the name of the proprietor of the plant stand he was minding at 40th Street and Broadway. "I'm just helping out," he said. "The owner has six stands like this one."

Peddler summonses in New York City declined almost 17 percent in early 1976 from the year-earlier level, according to a spokesman for the Police Department. In Janu-ary-February, 9,599 sum-monses were handed out for peddler violations, compared with 11,529 in the same 1975

Usually, first-offender fines are either $10 or $25, but fines are considerably higher for repeated offense, the po-lice spokesman said. Last year heavy fines were imposed on eight peddlers who had collected several thousand summoneses without responding until they were brought hefore a judge.

After one or more offenses peddler may be asked to attend a hearing at the De-partment of Consumer Affairs, where his license may be revoked.

ic expansion in the inked-ribbon business is ironically a competitive pressure that might as easily have put Eaton Allen out of business. It came from International Business Machines Inc.

It seems that I.B.M. has introduced "self-correcting" word-processing machines.
The user can hit on an opaquing material to cover up an error, or use a special tape that actually lifts the error night off the paper. The products come in spools of B.M.'s manufacture, and the threat was that one day ma-chines would be unable to use Eaton Allen's products.

So the company had to design and manufacture machines that could produce a product to fit on LBM. machines, and compete with that giant for the market io "We had to get into the plastic injection moldiog husiness and the film-coating business, we had to have our own coating machines and slitting machines and pack-aging machines," said Mr. Barouh. "Within six months -six months!--we had our first sample and in a year we were selling all over the Slitting machines cut the ribbons to the proper size, the boss explained on a tour through a factory jammed with people, hoxes and machines, and pervaded by exotic inky odors. "See those slitters? I've got 25 more of those coming in and nowhere to put them."

Th company is huilding the addition entirely with its own capital. "I don't believe in borrowing," Mr. Baruch said.

"We can do it, because bere everybody works! No bosses in long coats with eight secretaries. At the end of the year we have money to invest back in the business." Eaton Allen, with sales of about $15 million a year, also has plants in Canada and Puerto Rico. The main plant is in Williamshurg to stay. When Robert Glen, Oscar Eaton and Mr. Barouh set up the business 20 years ago, nine men who had been their colleagues at a typewriter-ribbon company called the Oldtown Corporation quit to join them, working for seven weeks without pay. The move to Kent Avenue came five years later, and Eaton Allen has been buying adjoining property ever since.

First there was the 40,000 square feet of empty land where a 60,000-square-foot building was huilt for manufacturnig. That was eight years ago. Then there was a 15,000-square-foot building and warehouse a year later. The latest $1,250,000 addition is to be finished by Janu-

"There's a billion-dollar re-tail market for these sup-plies!" Mr. Barouh said. "I ust wish we could get that Penn Central warehouse."

British Economists Optimistic LONDON, Aug. 3 (UPI) - Britain's economy has reached a turning point and the future looks a lot brighter, a group of Oxford economists said today. They have completed a study that concentrates oo intermediate-term prospects affecting private enterprise.

The report by the Oxford Analytical Group is being studied by at least six major United States companies, which are considering increasing investment in Britain or setting up offices here. The study said that diminished relative economic power had left Britain "demoralized" and that the international community had come to accept this assessment, "judging the future by protecting a dis-appointed past and expressing that judgment in the value of the pound."

But the economists argued that, "in an intriguing way, 1976 shows signs of being the first year since tha early 1950's in which extrapolating from past decline does not give an accurate view of the future."

Idle Railway Capacity Found

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Nearly two-thirds of the freight carried by the nation's 58 largest railroads moves over only one-fifth of the country's track, the Federal Railroad Administration reported today. The agency said its preliminary report on the oation's rail network also found that about one-third of tha 193,000-mile system carries only I percent of the rail traffic. It also determined that excess amounts of rail capacity exist on 11 major routes.

The report was ordered by Congress last year when it passed the Regional Rail Reorganization Act.

F.C.C. Defers Press-Wire Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (UPI)-The Federal Communications Commission announced today it bad dismissed petitions by several news services to modify issues in its investigation of preferential press communication rates. Instead, the F.C.C. said it would hold the investigation in abeyance peoding the outcome of proposals relating to domestic private line services.

The petition was filed Feb. 11 by The Associated Press, United Press loternational, Reuters, Commodity News Service and the American Newspaper Publishers Associatioo. SAFEGUARO IRDUSTRIES INC.

Finland's President Backs Soviet Ties

Finland should not be "pitied" because of its "imagined economic dependence" on the Soviet Union, President Urho Kekkonen said in Washington yesterday. Paying a Bicentennial visit, Mr. Kekkonen was welcomed at the White House by President Ford and Secretary of State, Henry A. Kissinger along with Foreign Minister Kaley Sorsa.

"Not only the [Finnish] ad-ministration but all the economic circles agree." President Kekkonen told a National Press Club audience. "We want to further expand this cooperation [with the Soviet Union]." The 74-yearold president will celebrate his 20th anniversary in office next mooth.

Cari Sagan, the astronomist and space oiologist cur-rently with the Mars Viking Project, has signed a fourbook contract with Random House and Ballantine Books. The New York-born Dr. Sagan is a Cornell University professor and director of its planetary laboratory. The first manuscript will speculate on the evolution of human intelligence and will be published next spring. The second will deal with the Viking Project. The amount of the contract was not dis-

Late yesterday, after a cabinet meeting, External Af-fairs Minister Allan Mac-Eachen rejected the Soviet demand for "immediate re-turn" of the defector as "quite unacceptable."

The term "turncoat," or even "defector," was firmly rejected yesterday by James G. Veneris, who chose to live in China after his 1953 release by North Korea as an American P.O.W. "How could I be a defector," he said in a California interview for the NBC "Today" show, when NBC "Today" show, when the armistice agreement "stipwanted that we had a right to go someplace else? I wanted to entwine my heart with the Chinese people's heart—what I did was patriotic. I can't understand why they didn't give me an honorable discharge." On his first trip home, paid for hy the Chinese Government, Mr. Veneris is bound for his birthplace in Vandergrift, Pa.

Considers Court Action on Coverage by Networks

TRENTON, Aug. 3 (UPI)-Governor Byrne today criticized the Federal Government's recommendation that one news crew and one correspondent be assigned te New Jersey by each television network affiliate in New York and Philadelnhia.

Governor Byrne said he had asked his lawyers to explore 18:00 the possibility of aopealing the Federal Communications Commission's decision in the Federal courts.

He called the decisien "a prime example of the F.C.C.'s failure to meet its clear respoosibility to insure adequate VHF television service for the citizens of New Jersey."
The Governor said the F.C.C.

had set up only "loose guide-lines" for the assignment of news crews and correspon-dents. (11) Family Affair (13) Zoom (R)

The commission also postpooed until Sept. 13 a decision on whether to require each station to maintain studio facilities in New Jersey.
"Most of the commercial stations already claim to be doing what the commission suggests in its guidelines," Governor Byrne said, "Yet the commis-sion itself has conceded that current station practices have resulted in inadequate service The commission points out the problem, but is rejuctant to or der the solutions."

responded in the interests of 11:55 (2) CBS. News: Douglas the broadcasters by oot order-ing studio facilities in the Garden State.

He asserted that the F.C.C still could provide a "satisfac-tory remedy" through a strong commitment to studio facilities and said be would wait until Sept. 13 before deciding whether to take legal action.

DELAY ON AIR BAG DRAWS NADER IRE

He Charges Transportation Chief's Hearing Is Held to Put Off Decision Again

By DIANE HENRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3-Sec retary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr.'s one-day marathon hearing on whether to require air bags on automobiles provoked a sharp verbal clash today between the Secre tary and Ralph Nader, the con sumer advocate.

Mr. Nader, one of 60 witnesses to appear at the bearing where Mr. Coleman sat alooe at a desk in a department auditorium, accused Mr. Coleman of using the hearings to "assure further delays io issuing a final passive restraint standard by scheduling these hearings."

"What more factual ioformation could be developed by another set of hearings beyond that already developed in the extensive May 1975 hearing?" Mr. Nader asked.

Mr. Coleman interrupted him and replied: "Sir, you're a great leader in this town, but 1 don't think you can come in here and challeoge my integrity when you haveo't even heard this morning's testimony."

"You couldn't know what you're talking about because you weren't here." Mr. Coleman contioued, adding that be in-deed had beoefited from questioning witnesses instead of basing his decision, which he promised to anounce io December, solely on the basis of writtee material.

If further hearings were oecessary, Mr. Nader asked, "Why did you not schedule them long before oow since your year's inaction will cause another model year of cars to be produced without passive re straiots and effectively con-demn about 10,000 people to

Mr. Nader added that the air bag question "is not eco-nomics, it is not engineering, it is not administrative feasibil ity-it is whether William T. Coleman has the guts to stand up to General Motors and Ford Motor Company as he has had the guts to stand up oo civil rights years ago."

The Audience Boos

Some in the audlence booed softly as Mr. Coleman, who is black, replied: "I would have expected a remark like that from a lot of bigoted people in this town." but not, he said, from Mr. Nader.

Mr. Nader retorted, "That, Mr. Secretary, is as bigoted a remark as I have ever beard from an elected official." Throughout the procession of witnesses, Mr. Coleman gave few clues on what his ultimate decisloo might be. Those testi-fying divided basically into two camps: the auto industry and against the air bag, partly on the ground that seat belts would be just as effective, and the insurance companies, some Department of Transportation safety experts and consumer groups, who want the air bag because they cootend people will not wear seat beits.

The air bag, sometimes referred to as a passive restraint, is a balloon-like device under the dashboard that inflates to cushion froot seat passengers io a crash and deflates instant-

However Mr. Coleman did have one persistent question for those on each side of the issue It included an analyis showing that if 70 percent of the people wore their seat belts, about the same oumber of lives would be saved as would be the case

if air bags were mandated. As they have in the past, the opponents of air bags answered that they believed that was true and the propon-ents answered it did not make aoy difference since, as has beeo showo in other countries. people will not wear seat beits even when required to do so

MINE TALKS BARRED UNTIL STRIKE ENDS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug 3 (AP)—The coal industry's chief spokesman said today that mine operators would not talk with striking miners uotil they eoded their three-week-old walkoot.

The strike, in protest over Federal court injunctions and fines, continued to keep half the oation's 150,000 soft coal minekrs off the job today. All of West Virgioia and parts of Virginia. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Rentucky, Illinois and Indiana reported empty mines.

A meeting with the strikers before they return to work "would lead credence to the false idea that any single group of miners can, in defiance of the law, their own union and the contract, hold the coal in-dustry hostage to gain their own selfish ends," Joseph P. Brennan, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators As-sociation, said from Washing ton. Earlier today, the United Mine Workers president, Ar-Mine Workers president, Arnold R. Miller, sent telegrams to presidents of seveo union districts ordering them to get their members back to work.

Miners in the strike ceoter of Kanawba County, which includes Charleston, have demanded a meeting with the industry association as a coodition for their return to work.

"Fathering new products is like raising kids— you have to anticipate the world they're going to live in."

That's Tom Lewis talking about the importance of marketing and environmental considerations in his work, product development.

"... you have to determine how a chemical acts in a given environment, how the environment acts on the chemical."

At age 37, Thomas B. Lewis is New Product Development Manager at Monsantos Rubber Chemicals marketing and research facility at Akron, Ohio. He's responsible for the commercial development of new materials, mostly rubber-related, to open new markets, improve performance, or cut production costs for Monsantos customers.

"We have a team that meshes to give life to a new product. We balance, complement each other. Our backgrounds vary, ranging from marketing to basic research. Mine's > Lewis feels he could become insulated from the market without a lot of travel to face off with customers on their long-range needs.

"Over lunch, one of Detroit's suppliers recently told me about the challenge of higher temperatures—approaching 400 degrees - near the engine of tomorrow's cars. His under-the-hood rubber parts will harden and crack if they're not protected from this heat. We may already have a chemical on the shelf to add to the rubber to prevent the cracking; if not, we'll try to develop one?

The time scales for Tom's projects are calibrated in five and ten year gradations, and the work has as many deadends as triumphs.

"Each new product has deficiencies that you have to see past. But the day will come when we resolve those problems. A product were working on today will probably mature in the 1980's."

Born in Cleveland. Tom got his B.S. and M.S. at John Carroll University, and, in 1962, went to M.I.T. where he earned a Ph.D. in physics. He followed his mentor to another major university, Then the academic life began to pall.

"...the grind, the pressure, the rivalry and politics of winning tenure at a big university...there had to be more to life than that. And I wanted to see what industry was like."

To find out, he joined Monsanto in St. Louis and liked it so well that he staved with them ever since. The Lewises (Tom, wife Mary, Mark 10, Mary-Margaret 7. Maureen 6) are activists. Tom and Mary play tennis each week. Tom golfs occasionally and the whole family frequently gets together with Toms brother's family for a softball game and picnic. Tom is involved with Mark in junior hockey and little league baseball, helps him run his paper route through Shaker Heights' winding, tree-shaded streets. Mary will return to work this fall, teaching social studies. Both Tom and Mary are involved politically. Tom recalls an encounter with a local precinct boss when they lived in St. Louis:

"He was terrified to be confronted with the opinions of the people he supposedly represented."

The Lewises are Catholics but feel uncomfortable with the Cleveland pattern of the parish church with its neighborhood-centered congregation; so along with Tom's brother's family, they're active in a non-geographical Catholic community.

"I started reading SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN in high school. And I still read it for two reasons: to find out what's happening in fields in which I'm not directly involved, and because the writers do an excellent job of surveying the sciences I work with. When you pick it up, you feel the high quality, the fine printing. Even the ads look better."

In a society that lives by innovation, discovery is our most important product. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is the magazine of discovery, attracting a growing number of newsstand buyers and subscribers. Each month it is read by more than 1.5 million men and women who make the future
